THE CENTRAL BUILDING TO BE COMPLETED AND MADE INTO A LIBRARY.

The History of the Building.

Union men everywhere will rejoice over the announcement made by President Raymond last Tuesday morning that Mr. Andrew Carnegie had given $40,000 to enable the trustees to complete the central building and convert it into a library.

When the college was removed to its present site early in the last century a comprehensive plan for the grounds and buildings was prepared by a French architect then in this country, and that plan adopted at the time by the college authorities called for a circular building in the center of the campus. The funds available however, were insufficient to carry out the original plan in all its details, but the idea of a central building was never abandoned and for many years such a building appeared in all the pictures of the college, notably in the beautiful engraving on the diplomas. In the confident hope that this idea would be realized the mound upon which the building was to be placed was made long before there was any immediate prospect for the building itself. A few years before Dr. Nott's death, which occurred in 1866, a foundation was laid broad and deep and strong, but the promise thus given was not to be immediately fulfilled. For fifteen years this foundation was all that appeared. The students called it "Fort Gillespie" after the professor of engineering who had supervised its construction. In 1872 it became the scene of a singular midnight demonstration by the undergraduates who, after parading the city in white robes and to the solemn strains of a funeral march, gathered about the old foundation for the mock burial of the trustees. In 1875 the announcement was made that the long hoped for building was at last to be begun, when the students manifested their delight by another midnight parade ending again at "Fort Gillespie" where speeches were made and songs sung to celebrate the resurrection of the trustees. But there were disappointments still to come, for the architect's plans were too ambitious and called for more money than could be secured for this purpose and so the building which at last appeared, while beautiful and impressive, was incomplete in many of its details and ill adapted to any practical use. Such as it was, however, it bore witness to the enterprise and energy of Dr. Potter, then president of the college, and it will be gratifying to all his friends to know that it was through him finally, that the money was obtained to complete the work which he began.

In the fall of 1900 Dr. Potter called upon Mr. Carnegie and described to him the condition of the building, receiving at that time the promise of a sum of money sufficient to make all necessary repairs and to substitute metal for wood in the drum of the dome. At Mr. Carnegie's suggestion estimates of the cost of the work were to be secured. Dr. Potter's sudden and unexpected death a few weeks later while traveling in Mexico, interrupted the negotiations, but when Mr. Carnegie was recently approached by representatives of the college he renewed his promise and generously increased the sum that he would give so as to provide not only for the completion of the building, but also for its adaptation to the uses of a library.

We expect to print later a detailed statement of the architects' plans. Enough is known at present, however, to give assurance that the hopes of many years are to be realized and that the building originally designed to be the chief ornament of the college grounds will be worthy its place in the center of the campus, as practically useful as it will be architecturally beautiful.

THE UNIVERSITY SMOKER.

Great Amount of Credit Due to the Committee.

This affair which came off at the rooms of the University Club of Albany on Friday evening, April 11, was completely successful as an entertainment and as such should prove a source of great satisfaction to all concerned. There was a spirit of equality and oneness, of a true university spirit shown which testified to the attainment of the object of the smoker. College songs were sung and Union yells were frequent. The committee deserves a great deal of credit for their efforts to make the smoker a successful affair, and it is to be regretted that the men were not present in larger numbers. Thanks are due to the University Club for their kindness in permitting the smoker to be held there. PRESIDENT RAYMOND COLGATE'S ORATOR.

President Raymond has been chosen to deliver the oration before the faculty and students of Colgate university on Patron's Day, April 18.

THE NEW CHI PSI LODGE.

The members of the Chi Psi Fraternity are now housed in their new lodge, the Philip Spencer Memorial building. Although the interior finish is not yet completed, it is expected that another month will suffice to put things in proper shape to receive visitors.

The architecture of the building is designed after that of an old English villa or country house having a suggestion of the Doman-French style. The exterior of the building is of Portland cement which is tinted a buff color and is interspaced with half-timber work which is stained a dark green. On the campus side is a large porch having ample room for the men to sit about on warm days, while on the rear is a loggia designed more especially for a sort of conservatory. Within, entering from the front facing the campus, there is a massive staircase and commodious reception hall. Adjoining this to the right is the general sitting room and lounging room; to the left is a large dining room. There is a large fireplace in either room, and in the latter, the mantel is designed after one which graces one of the rooms of a Welsh Baronial castle. Facing the staircase is the memorial library. The attractiveness of the room is greatly enhanced by a large fireplace and a mantel intended for memorial overhangings. The finish of the dining room and memorial library is quartered oak which is stained the color of the Flemish oak. The sitting room and reception hall are of quartered oak, the former is to have a finish of golden oak. The staircase is also of quartered oak, and is broken by a landing between each two floors. In the first landing the windows—five—are of leaded glass, the middle one having the fraternity monogram in the center. These windows look out toward the campus. On the second floor is a good-sized reception room and hall at the head of the stairs. This floor also has bedrooms and studies en suite, the latter being commodious and will be fitted out so that, besides being well adapted for purposes of study, will be much used for general lounging. A large-sized bathroom with shower is also on this floor.

The third floor has combination study and bedrooms, having ample closet room. The basement contains a large, well-lighted kitchen, butler's pantry, servants' quarters, heating apparatus, cycle room, toilet-rooms and other accessories. The finish of the interior with the exception of the first floor and staircase is of cypress wood. The lodge has accommodations for twelve students assigning two to a suite.

THE ARMSTRONG CASE FINALLY SETTLED IN UNION'S FAVOR.

The litigation over the will of the late Thomas Armstrong of Plattsburg by which he bequeathed his entire estate valued at $125,000 to Union college, cutting off his wife and son, Emmet Armstrong, with practically nothing, was abruptly terminated at Plattsburgh on Tuesday, April 8, during the trial of a suit in the supreme court before Justice Houghton, by amicable settlement outside of court.

Judge Judson S. Landon transferred a small part of the estate to Emmet Armstrong on condition that he cease all legal action against the college.

Thomas Armstrong died in Plattsburgh in 1895.

HUDSON RIVER SCHOOLMASTERS' CLUB.

President Raymond was one of the speakers at the meeting of the Hudson River Schoolmasters' Club at the Ten Eyck, Albany, on April 11-12. The subject discussed was: "How shall the club be made most helpful to its members and to educational interests of its territory?" Principal George W. Fairgrieve, '84, of the Cocksackie High School was also one of the speakers.

Syracuse has accepted the invitation of the New York State Inter-collegiate Athletic Association to rejoin that association.

THE BASE BALL SEASON OPENED.

West Point Wins But by the Small Score of 2 to 1.

Union's base ball season was opened on Saturday, April 12, with a game with West Point Military Academy at West Point. The game although resulting in a defeat for Union was a surprise in a way, as it showed of what promising material Union's team is composed.

Union took the lead in the first inning when Griswold, the first man up, was hit by Graham, the West Point pitcher, and took his base. Grout by a sacrifice advanced Griswold to second base. Odwell hit the ball to the pitcher, who just recovered in time to throw him out at first, Griswold in the meantime making third. On Garber's error Griswold crossed the plate. Devoe was next up and was thrown out at second.

Union held this lead until the fifth inning when, with Gardner on first and Winston on second, O'Brien muffed Graham's long fly and two men crossed the plate. Try as each team did neither was successful in getting another man past third base.

The remainder of the game was marked by sensational fielding on both sides, few men going farther than first. The West Pointers recognized Griswold's ability and made no attempts to steal second.

In the first inning, Mahar made a phenomenal one-handed stop which saved a three-base hit. Not less brilliant was Heath's long run and catch of a fly to deep left. A pretty double by Griswold's catch of an infield fly and his quick throw to Odwell catching the runner off first base was another feature. Not an error was made by Union's infield and only one altogether.

Devoe's pitching was remarkable. His delivery puzzled the opponents to a great extent and he succeeded in striking out seven men and allowed only three scattered hits. He is undoubtedly one of the best pitchers Union has ever had. The summary is as follows:

LECTURE BY DR. SAMUEL IVES CURTISS OF THE CHICAGO THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY, TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 15.

Subject: Survivals of Primitive Semitic Religions based on personal interviews with Syrians and Arabs.

In opening Dr. Curtiss spoke of the best authorities on the subject of Syrian archæology, and of his methods of study. He described the wonderful beauty of the Syrian scenery and stated that the commonly accepted idea concerning the unhealthfulness of the climate is erroneous.

With the Rev. Mr. March and another missionary, in the summer of 1900, Dr. Curtiss set out from Beirut for a pleasure trip through the beautiful hills of Lebanon. The people of the region, though nominally Mahomedans, are virtually nature worshippers as they were in the days of the prophets. Their saints are buried in enormous shrines to which are brought animal sacrifices and over which many curious rites are celebrated. In a deserted village in the Druze mountains a young English woman of his party had discovered a shrine at which the rite of the passover was being performed, the blood of the goat was sprinkled on the door posts and threshold.

The subject interested him very much and the following summer with another party Dr. Curtiss went over the same ground making a more careful study of these shrines. At one shrine, a great monolith, an interview was held with two Arab priests which yielded a store of fascinating folk lore and valuable information concerning their religious rites. The Arabs of this region have many customs different from those of other Moslems. No direct questioning availed because of the peculiarity of the Syrian nature, but the use of indirect methods brings out from these Arabs a singular confirmation of the statements in the scriptures concerning the early history of the people.

After some anecdotes about Syrian customs the speaker invited any one to question him about relative topics and several points of interest were further illumined. Dr. Curtiss is a very agreeable speaker and his short informal talk was well appreciated.

INTER-COLLEGIATE.

The members of the Harvard foot ball team have been presented with gold souvenir footballs.

A student vaudeville entertainment is to be given at the University of California in the near future.

The Senior law class at the University of Wisconsin has adopted linen dusters and straw hats instead of the time-honored cap and gown.

The inauguration of President Butler of Columbia will take place on April 18 and 19. Both days will be made holidays. On the first day the students will hold exercises and on the second day President Roosevelt, Gov. Odell and Mayor Low are expected to deliver addresses.

Class Reunions. The class of 1842 will celebrate its sixtieth anniversary on alumni day, June 9, and it is hardly necessary to remind the members that Old Union's arms are always open to her sons. The Concordiensis presents in this issue individual histories, as accurate as it was possible to make them, of the members of that class. It has been necessary, as usual, to call on the fraternities for the large share of this information. In the next issue the histories of the classes of '52 and '62 will be given.

The Base Ball Season. The base ball season has opened auspiciously for Union, although with a defeat at the hands of West Point. The game was a surprise in many ways. It showed, for one thing, what kind of material Union has for a base ball team. There is a very great danger, however, sometimes in auspicious beginnings for they have the effect of producing over-confidence in the team and in the student body. The team relaxes their efforts to an extent and the students get the idea that the team will win anyway, whether they turn out and give it encouragement or not and whether they pay up their subscriptions or not. It is to be hoped that nothing of this kind will occur here. The team is doing good work but it cannot keep it up without the moral and financial support of the entire student body. Show your appreciation of the good work by supporting it.

The Round Building. It must bring joy to the heart of every Union man, whether undergraduate or alumnus, when it is known that the building standing on Union's campus that has required excuses and explanations for so many years will soon no longer need these excuses. Through the generosity of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, through Dr. Potter, it promises to be a source of pride to every Union man and to repay for all the years of reproach that it has suffered. It will be a thing of beauty, the central building in fact, and no longer by courtesy merely. Its usefulness is unquestionable. The present library is very inadequate in regard to size and as the library is constantly and rapidly growing this change will indeed be a boon. By the removal of the library from its present quarters in Washburne Hall two large rooms will be gained which can be used as classrooms or lecture-halls or laboratories, or even a chapel. The authorities have not as yet made known their plans as to the disposition of these rooms.

The New York Concert. The failure of the musical association in its attempt to secure a New York concert this year reveals an extraordinary state of affairs in alumni circles in that city. For several years the clubs have been enabled to secure an audience in Carnegie Lyceum mainly by the earnest endeavors of Mr. Edgar S. Barney, '84, who has taken entire charge of promoting an interest in the association by advertising and by personal labor for which he deserves the highest thanks. This year he was unable to take upon himself this task and as none of the other alumni in New York and vicinity would undertake it, this concert, the best paying one of the year, and the real aim of the spring trip had to be abandoned.

Mr. Barney stated that in his estimation a concert should be given in New York no oftener than once in two years, because the interest of the other Union graduates in New York required that interval for stimulation. Whether this indicates a soporific effect of such concerts or not, it must be acknowledged that it is too much to expect that one man or nearly so should devote his time without receiving the support and coöperation of his fellow alumni. At all events Union is no better off than Yale, for the concert by the latter college's clubs in the same hall in New York was a financial failure. It has been the aim of the present management to control expenditures and avoid doubtful concerts, and the association at the close of this year on that account will be in as good financial condition as ever before.

Suppose

that instead of going to the tailor this spring for a Suit you try one of our ready-to-wear suits. You will find it will fit better, wear longer, keep its shape, and be in better style and taste than anything the average tailor can make to your measure. The suit will cost you about one-half of what the tailor would charge. These high-grade suits come from such manufacturers as Rogers, Peet & Co., Hart, Schaffner & Marx, and other makers of reliable clothing. Come in and look at our Spring Suits and Top Coats.
