EIGHTY MILES AN HOUR ON AN ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVE.

In the eighty years of the development of locomotives for long-distance transportation, only a dozen years or so have passed since the electric locomotive has been in the field. But fourteen years ago no such thing had been heard of, and, while the steam locomotive of to-day is the result of three-quarters of a century of invention and improvement, the present perfection of the electric locomotive has been reached after only a decade of experimental and research work. For some of us who are more or less familiar with them the novelty has begun to wear off, but there are hundreds of engineers who would place great value upon a trip on one of them. For those of my readers who are among the less fortunate, I will attempt to describe a trip on one of these "Mercuries of the Rail."

We board an Amsterdam car at Schenectady, N. Y., the home of the electric engine, and go west through the Mohawk Valley. We have to ride but three miles when our car, running parallel to the New York Central tracks, gets abreast of the well-known and much-feared third rail.

Here we see one of those silent, mysterious bulks of iron, standing quietly with no puffing and blowing, as in the case of the steam engine, impatient to be off, but with a majestic silence, telling us of vast power pent up within it and but temporarily subdued.

Continuing up the valley, we look out of the window, and are allowed but a few seconds to catch a glimpse of the once still engine now devouring the track on which it runs at an enormous rate of speed, and soon becoming invisible in the distant perspective, although we are running in the same direction of 50 miles per hour. Soon, however, we arrive at Wyatt's crossing, the location of the sub-station and barn. Here we await the return of the engine, and in the meantime wander about the station.

High up on the side of the wall the 33,000-volt lines enter from the outside, and immediately below are the curiously shaped lightning arresters and the long, slim main switches. Down on the floor are a set of transformers which reduce the alternating current of 33,000 volts to a much lower potential. From these the current runs to the rotary converter which, in turn, gives off a direct current of but 660 volts, which is applied to the third rail, paralleling the track outside.

But the engine is awaiting us now, having been stopped by one of the employes, so we must hurry aboard. First, the conductor must take our pass so as to protect himself in case anything should happen to us. He finds all is right and signals to go ahead. The bell clangs forth a few strokes and the "engineer," who is a motorman, slowly opens his "throttle." Slowly, steadily, and with almost no sound, we begin to move. The motorman does not hold his lever on the first notch, but quickly pulls it over the entire first set, of which there are three, and the motors continue to accelerate perfectly smoothly until near their limit of speed under that set, when he gives them additional "juice."

Starting from the eastern end, we have a straight stretch of three-quarters of a mile, at the end of which there are several sharp, double curves. Along here the motorman is not allowed to exceed a speed of 65 miles per hour for safety's sake. This is rather fast traveling, after never having gone faster than 60 miles per hour, and we wonder at the ease with which our steed takes the curve, leaning far over to the inside so that when standing erect, with regard to the floor, we are ten degrees from the perpendicular. At the end of the curve she rights herself and slowly leans in the opposite direction on going around the next curve.

In this way we pass over that part of the track containing several curves and a slight up grade, which ends about one mile west of the sub-station. Then we enter a straight stretch, ending in a long, well-balasted curve, equal to about 70 degrees of the circumference of a circle, and on the inside of which, close to the track, is the sub-station and barn, and just beyond, the crossing. Directly upon leaving the sharper curves the motorman gives his gearless machine (the axles of the drivers, being the shafts of the motors around which are the armatures) the entire 660 volts, and we immediately experience an increase of speed. This continues until it reaches about 74 miles per hour, when it strikes the curve, reels gently to one side and settles itself in that position. The motorman pulls the chord of his great compressed air whistle for four long, loud, piercing blasts, grasps his current and break levers, and we rush upon the little sub-station, which is situated at the far end of the curve and partially hidden by trees. We are now half way around and moving at a terrific speed when it suddenly appears in our very path. On, on it comes, increasing in size until we finally dash upon it and just miss it, passing barely to one side. When directly abreast of it there is a deafening roar of the whistle and we rush past on the far side, and, looking back, we behold pedestrians at the crossing holding on to their hats and one another, while to them we rapidly grow smaller in the distance.

We have now entered the two-mile straight-away with no crossing, change of grade or curve within that distance. For the whole six miles of the track there are mile, half and quarter-mile posts with one, two and three black bands on them, respectfully. These we pass in quicker succession after leaving Wyatt's, and, when within a half-mile of the place where the power must be shut off, a couple of the men time our flight with stop watches. Eleven and three-tenths seconds, is the verdict. We know that this is for the whole of a quarter of a mile, and with it comes the realization that we are covering distance at the rate of 79.6 miles per hour. But now easily, we think. The objects outside have passed with incredible rapidity, but all thought of such speed would vanish when we would think of the very slight sway and the entire absence of all forward lurching.

Now we realize that the train on the steam tracks, which we overtook and left behind us in our mad rush, was really a limited making up lost time, as it now flies past us at a speed that but yesterday we would have declared as being "fast!" Our short but rapid journey is now over and as the brakes are applied we come quietly to a standstill, take a long breath and try to realize what we have experienced.

NORTHFIELD.

As the college year draws to a close, many of us are thinking what we are going to do that will enable us to get the best results for ourselves and for others. For such a man there is no place where such a result may be obtained as at Northfield.

The Northfield Student Conference for 1908 will be held on the grounds of the Northfield Seminary, East Northfield, Mass. It is as pretty a place as one would care to visit. The opening session is on Friday evening, June 26, at 7:30 o'clock; the closing on Sunday night, July 5.

The conference is truly an intercollegiate affair, as is shown by the fact that in 1907, there were present 756 students from 159 institutions in Canada and the Eastern United States.

The life of the conference is truly wholesome. Every afternoon, except Sunday, during the ten days, is given over to athletic sports of various kinds. A series of baseball games for the college championship, a tennis tournament with 150 or more entries, swimming in the Connecticut, tramping expeditions about the beautiful country, a track meet, and unique celebration of the Fourth of July—these offer to every man some form of athletic enjoyment that will contribute to the wholesome effects of the conference life.

Real friendships are formed during the days. Men of common interest in the fundamental things of life come together in a delightfully informal manner, and find in each other characteristics that make strong and permanent friendship. The enlarging of men's circle of acquaintance, alone, makes the ten days of value in the development of a richer and more enjoyable life.

At the meetings are heard such men as Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, D. D., New York City; Rev. Anson P. Stokes, Jr., of Yale; Rev. H. E. Fossdick, Montclair, N. J.; Rev. H. Roswell Bates,

New York City; Mr. John R. Moit, New York City; Mr. Robert E. Spear, New York City; Mr. Garfield Williams, London; Rev. Enoch Bell, Boston; Mr. J. Campbell White, New York City; Dr. S. M. Zwwemer and many others.

At present there are only seven men from Union that are going, and the Y. M. C. A. hopes to be able to get a delegation of at least fifteen men. It not only helps the men individually, but it also helps the college itself. It is worthy of every man's consideration. Let us not be behind in this, but at the front, where we are in every other important matter.

For further particulars see J. W. Faust '09, or S. M. Covert '10.

MEDIC COMMENCEMENT.

Last week, Tuesday, the seventy-seventh commencement exercises of the Albany Medical College were held in Odd Fellows' Hall at 3 p. m. Samuel B. Ward, M. D., Dean of the College, presided, and presented the candidates for degrees. George Alexander, D. D., Chancellor Ad Interim of the University, conferred the degrees, and gave an address to the graduating class. Eugene Howard Burnes of Amsterdam, N. Y., delivered an essay, and Samuel Pierson Brush of Troy, N. Y., delivered the valedictory. The subject of the valedictory address was "The History of Medicine," and a very excellent paper. He showed the additions of medical knowledge from very ancient times to the present, and also the results of this knowledge.

In his address to the class Dr. Alexander urged them to keep up the high standard they had had before them as students and in that way they would uphold the good reputation which the college has always enjoyed. He said that as they were then graduating their chief thing to do would be to think, and that in their line of work they had a splendid opportunity to advance in morals.

There were forty men in the class and out of this number thirty-three received hospital appointments, eight in Albany, and the others in different parts of the State.

MOVING-UP DAY.

At 4 o'clock, on Monday afternoon, the 18th, the seniors, capped and gowned with the other three classes met at the Idol and there the underclassmen gave that dignified individual a liberal coat of white paint thus declaring place between 1910 and 1911. Thence the classes moved in a procession to the diamond where the annual Soph-Frosh baseball game was held, which the Freshmen won to the tune of 3 to 2.

Should Nothing Be Done? Not long since a room was set up in the Red Building. We do not chastise the act itself so much as the idea that last year all of the classes passed resolutions to the effect that they would set up no more rooms. Now this resolution was broken and rumors have been rife of bad trouble between the Faculty and the Students. This should be remedied as soon as possible for if the Faculty lose faith in us we need not hope for any future allowances from them. It surely does seem a pity that the fellows can't stand by their word in such matters. Perhaps it will be said that those were the acts of a few reckless men, very true but the student body is held responsible and to them should the offenders answer. We cannot allow men to commit acts that will reflect on everyone when the guilty ones go free. Evidently the fellows did not realize the nature of their deed at time but are now fully cognizant of it. We would suggest as a remedy that a committee of the student body get apologies from the guilty ones and present them to the Faculty who no doubt will let them off easily for the offense this time.

It was brought out Moving-Up Day. last Monday that we need a longer time for Moving-Up, the exercises were not half through when we had to drop everything and hurry to our classes. This should not happen again and should be avoided by having an understanding with the Faculty that we will give up one of our other vacation days and use it on Moving-Up Day.

UNION LOSES BY A SMALL SCORE.

Worcester Polytechnic Institute defeated Union last Saturday by a score of 60-57 in a meet in which two Union College records were smashed and another was well on the way when the injury, in the pole vault of Streibert not only lost the meet for us but leaves an almost irreparable gap in the ranks of the track team. All through the meet the score had been alternating, Union, on the whole being slightly ahead but, through losing eight points in the broad jump the score was tied with only the pole vault to be contested. Only three men remained, Streibert of Union, and Chesley and Barney of W. P. I. Chesley sprained his ankle and the contest narrowed to Barney and Streibert. To win, either side needed first place, and while Barney was just able to make the height, Streibert cleared it easily, until falling, with his arms under him, he dislocated both elbows. First place went to Barney at 9 feet 11 inches, with Streibert second and Chesley, who pluckily vaulted over nine feet with a sprained ankle, won third. This gave W. P. I. six points to Union's three, thus making the score 60 to 57.

In the high jump Huthsteiner not only won first place, but also broke the college record of 5 feet 7 1-4 inches made by E. J. Dunn last year. Huthsteiner cleared the bar at 5 feet 8 2-5 inches.

Travis also fulfilled the predictions that have been made of him and broke the two-mile record, lowering it seven seconds. Gold, the noted W. P. I. man, in an attempt to keep pace with him became so exhausted that he fell twice, but arising pluckily finished second. Travis's time for the two-mile run was 10 minutes 38 seconds.

The whole team worked in a way that shows, that, with the support of the students and a little more training, they will do great things. The showing they made Saturday was surprising.

Following is the order of events with the winners and time of each:

The cheering of Union's men impressed the visitors very much as did the courtesy shown to them. Both were remarked upon by the W. P. I. men who expressed themselves more than pleased with the treatment given them.

Dr. Macomber, in a talk after the W. P. I. track meet urged all to come out for the track and try to make up for the loss of the points occasioned by the absence of Streibert from the pole vault. He especially urges men to come out for the pole vault as we need men for that position. The success of next week's meet depends upon every man getting out and working to his utmost. The splendid showing of the team Saturday should bring out more men and should serve as an inspiration to all who have the least track ability.

The outlook for next year is very good. Several good men are certain to enter Union next fall and Dunn of last year will be back. Taken all in all the prospects for next year are bright.

The trustees of Columbia have approved new conditions for admission to the medical school, to take effect two years from this fall. Two full years of study in a college or scientific school, or its equivalent, will be required.

'VARSITY WINS GAME—FEW ERRORS IN FAST GAME.

Last Saturday marked another victory for our baseball team. The little shower that came about 4 o'clock, put the air and field in good condition for playing ball, and there was some good playing done. The Edison team was rather a miscellaneous crowd, but considering that they do not practice together regularly, they played a pretty good game.

There was no scoring done in the first two innings, but in the third Mackey got to first on balls and, Perry made a hit, that brought Mackey home. Again in the fifth, we scored a run. Vogt made a hit and by some good base-running, a run was brought in. Then in the sixth, Weber got a hit, took second on a passed ball, and then came home. This was the last of the scoring during the game.

It was a very interesting game, and several good plays were made. There was a good crowd present, there being quite a number of "G. E. Test" men on hand, confident that the 'Varsity would be beaten, but the 'Varsity willed otherwise. The cheering by both sides was excellent and this undoubtedly helped the teams in their playing. Ladue made a very good catch on a long fly. Running sideways and backwards, he slumbled, but caught the ball as he fell, then preventing the Edison's scoring a run.

JUNIORS WIN.

The Junior Class carried off the honors in the inter-class track meet, being twelve points ahead of the Seniors who finished second, while the Sophomores and Freshmen are tie for third place honors.

The Seniors won the greatest number of points in the events of the second day of the meet, which was held Monday, but could not overcome the lead which the Juniors had from the first day.

The summary of Monday's events is as follows:

220-yard Dash—Streibert '09, first; Bentley, '11, second; Thorne '11, third. Time 24 1-8 seconds.

Reserved for the Parker Pen Co.

An excellent opportunity is hereby afforded for those who would help out the financial stringency of the "Concordy" and at the same time secure the best fountain pen that can be made.

You have perhaps noticed how a worthy competitor advertises his "clip clap" while Mr. Parker always advertises his pen.

"THERE'S A REASON"

THE MANAGEMENT.

Half-mile Run—Parsons, first; Raymond, second; Wright, third. Time 2 minutes, 8 3-5 seconds.

Two-mile Run—Travis '11, first; Finch '09, second; Flowers '08, third.

Relay Race—First: Thorne, Allyn, Wallace, Bentley, 1911. Second: Parsons, Raymond, Flowers, Fullerton, 1908.

COLLEGE MEETING.

President Chapman Presided.

Dr. McComber spoke on track activities, complimenting the fellows on their conduct in connection with the W. P. I. meet, speaking particularly of the work done by the team, especially Travis in the two-mile run. He also gave the baseball team a little warning about being overconfident as to their strength.

Faust spoke on Northfield. He made the motion that a committee, consisting of the Presidents of the different classes, and one other senior; be appointed to confer with the Dean in regard to the setting up of rooms. Seconded and carried.

Kline spoke in connection with the Glee Club trip to Johnstown.

Hip said a few words about the Saturday game.

Keith announced a special rehearsal of the orchestra.

Meeting adjourned.

Princeton University is the recipient of a gift of $250,000 from Mrs. Russel Sage for a freshman dormitory.

The regular yearly State appropriation for the University of Michigan amounts to $650,288.

D. M. C. A.

Last Sunday afternoon at the vesper's service Dr. Tayler of St. George's Episcopal Church gave a splendid talk upon "Discipline." Dr. Tayler took as his subject, "It is good for a man that he bear the yoke in his youth." He said that a college man is under a two-fold discipline, self-discipline and the discipline of his Alma Mater. Dr. Tayler said that college men some time get the foolish idea that when a man gets in college he ought not to have restraint thrust upon him as upon a child but should be left to take care of himself. This idea is entirely wrong for a man must submit to every form of discipline if he wishes to be a thoroughly equipped man. Dr. Tayler laid great stress upon old Union and her traditions and bade the men present to do all in their power through their life and influence to uphold the principles of their Alma Mater.

Next Sunday at 5 p. m. will be held the last vesper's service of the year. The speaker will be announced later, and it is hoped that Dr. Clowe may be secured to talk upon "Medicine As a Life Work." All are cordially invited.

At the annual field sports of the U. of P., held at Philadelphia, May 9, Frank Horr of Syracuse threw the hammer 173 ft. 5 in. This would have given him the world's championship had he not stepped a few inches over the line. He easily won the event with a throw of 148 ft. 5 in. and thereby received a gold watch.
