No. 24

THE OLD U. C. SENATE.

Probably there are but few men now in college who are aware of the fact that in our student body there existed, many years ago, an organization called the Union College Senate. This was, nevertheless, the case.

In October, 1839, there was held a meeting of the Senior Class, those to graduate June, 1840, for the purpose of organizing a body "by which they might become more efficient and useful in the discharge of their future duties," and to obtain "facilities for improvement in extemporaneous speaking, and to become familiar with those rules and usages, which prevail in parliamentary assemblies." To this body was given the name Senate. The members were, "as nearly as possible, persons of the same pursuits, and of equal academic rank, talent and attainment." The subjects for discussion embraced almost every question which was of interest to the scholar, statesman or general philanthropist. Its exercises were carried on contemporaneously with those of the recitation room and thus looseness of thought and language" was largely counteracted by frequent attention to written composition."

The Senate met every Saturday, except the first, of each collegiate term, at 9 o'clock a. m.

The officers of the Senate were a President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer and Librarian. The President was a member of the Faculty and presided at all meetings and at the first regular meeting after his election he had to deliver an address. It was the duty of the Vice-President to preside during the absence of the President. The President was elected annually and the other officers once a term.

No person could be an attending member unless he was a member of the Senior Class, and only such were eligible to office or to vote. Graduates were honorary members and members of the Faculty were ex-officio honorary members.

At the last regular meeting but one of the third term of the Senior year, the whole Junior Class was invited to become members of the Senate, and at the next meeting those desiring to become members were duly initiated.

Twenty attending members constituted a quorum. All members were required to be present at every meeting and an absentee was fined "the sum of six and a quarter cents." Besides this, each member paid into the treasury, in the second week of each term, the sum of twenty-five cents.

The questions that were discussed in the form of "Debates" by the Senate were confined to Political Science, Political Economy, Ethics, Mental Philosophy and Literature. And the questions were decided by a majority of the members present.

There were seven classes among the members of the Senate, with reference to their residence: Those rooming in North Hall and North Section of North College, first class; those in Middle Section, second class; those in South Section, third class; those in North Section of South College, fourth class; those in Middle Section, fifth class; those in South Section and South Hall, sixth class, and those rooming in town, the seventh class. These residences were called districts, and in debate, a member was referred to as the Gentleman or Senator from the first district, etc.

There was held an annual celebration of the Senate on the afternoon and evening of Commencement Day. The members met at 2 o'clock p. m. "to exchange salutation, to consult concerning measures calculated to perpetuate the Senate and promote its interests and to dine." In the evening an address was delivered by the orator, who was a graduate of Union College.

As far as possible the meetings of the Senate were carried out like the meetings of the U. S. Senate. The President had power "to preserve order and decorum," and to "certify passage of all bills by the Senate." No member could "speak to another or otherwise interrupt the business of the Senate, or read any matter irrelevant to the business of the Senate, while the journals or public papers were being read," nor could "a Senator pass between a Senator speaking and the chair. Every Senator, after addressing the President could not proceed further until recognized by the chair, and every Senator present had to vote on a question unless excused by the Senate or President.

This is an outline of the methods of the old "Union College Senate." We have no record as to when it disbanded, but we can see that great help was gotten out of it, and would still be, if there was such an organization here at present.
V. D., '10.

WITH THE DEBATERS.

Debating on the hill has been rather quiet during the past week, but that is no sign that there has been nothing doing. The four men who have been chosen to represent Union in the annual debate against Rutgers, Weyrauch, La Crosse, Mould and Davies as alternate, have been working hard collecting reference material and formulating plans for the contest. The subject, "Resolved, That further restriction of immigration is undesirable," is being well mastered, and the forecast is that we will put up an excellent fight, even if we do not win the palm. The debaters are in hopes of doing to the Rutgers debating team what our nine did to their baseball team a week ago.

LECTURE.

Last week Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Emerson, head of the Mining and Engineering Department of the G. E. Co., delivered a lecture in the chapel on the practical application of electricity, showing how it is used in all branches of manufacturing. He used some lantern slides of different manufacturing plants in which electricity is used for that purpose.

About two weeks ago Chancellor J. R. Day of Syracuse University asked Dean Kent of the College of Applied Science to resign. The Senior Class of the engineering college drew up resolutions criticizing this act and on April 30th the Chancellor notified the class that the members were suspended until the resolutions were retracted, and that unless such action was taken, its members would not be graduated. The class cut recitations and "held a meeting."

THE SIGMA XI ELECTION.

An election to the Sigma Xi Honorary Society was held by the local chapter Monday, April 27. At that time eight members of the class of 1908 were elected on the basis of high scientific or engineering ability and proficiency in research and independent work. Election into this society is open only to faculty members, alumni and senior candidates for graduation from the engineering, scientific and the Latin scientific courses, provided honors are taken in mathematics or science.

The following are the members from the Senior Class: Bocian, Davies, Hanigan, Hoffman, Marx, Penrose, Stevens and Vandegrift. Prof. C. F. F. Garis of the mathematics department was also elected.

The faculty members who conducted the election are Profs. Landreth, Ellery, Stoller, Opdyke, Hughes, Ferguson, and Messrs. Young, Cunningham and King.

The society was founded at Cornell University in 1886, and now has more than twenty chapters. The Theta Chapter was established at Union in '87.

CHAPEL MEETING.

Kline, '08, presided.

Captain Vogt spoke on the game with Colgate Saturday. He said the game was very unsatisfactory because Union in the sixth inning made four runs, but these were not counted as the game was called before the last half of the inning.

Captain Parsons asked those who had been out for track to meet him after chapel.

Stevens, '08, announced the election of an alumni member of the Athletic Board and of the Undergraduate Secretary to be held next Monday morning.

Faust, '09, spoke on Y. M. C. A. work and that Mr. Downs would address next Sunday's vespers.

HARD LUCK.

He liked his drink. One night he took more than his capacity and upon reaching his front yard ran into a tree. His wife, awaiting him, heard him desperately remark, while wandering around the tree:

"Losht, losht, losht in a beastly woods!—Ex.

Y. M. C. A.

At the last regular Tuesday evening meeting Rev. William Hooper Adams, Union '02, addressed the students on "The Struggle of the Intellectual Student Against Doubt." Mr. Adams said that the years at college are very frequently the determining years regarding a man's religion. He held with the poet that "He who never doubted, never half believed;" and then divided the causes of doubt into three heads: Evolution, agnosticism and higher criticism of the Bible.

He said that the days when evolution was thought atheistic are long since past, for evolution does harmonize with the Bible; that ten years ago a man thought he must be an agnostic to keep up with modern thinkers, while to-day such a man is behind the times, for scientists now say that the man who would be truly scientific must be a Christian; and, finally, that higher criticism is seeking to throw the light of modern knowledge upon the Bible and, as a result, we are nearer the minds of the authors than we ever were before.

At the vesper service Sunday afternoon Dr. Fred Winslow Adams of the First Methodist Church spoke on "The Young Man in the Ministry." He made an earnest plea for the college student of to-day to consider seriously the Christian ministry as a life work.

Dr. Adams is to be followed by prominent speakers, who will present the claims that other professions have on the college man. The Tuesday evening meetings have been discontinued till next Fall, and all the attention is to be concentrated on the Sunday vespers. The life work series are proving extremely helpful and interesting, and it is the hope of the management that the fellows will turn out to this service, as it is now the only one of the week.

It is the intention of the Y. M. C. A. to send a large delegation to the Northfield Conference which is to be held June 26 to July 5. These ten days spent in camp life in the wholesome atmosphere of East Northfield are days that are never forgotten by those who have been there. Fellows who desire to attend the conferences should register their names soon with President Faust or Cavert, '10, the chairman of the committee.

ECONOMIC ESSAYS.

Recently an invitation has been extended to the students of old Union to compete for valuable prizes on economic subjects. The committee in charge is as follows: Professor J. Laurence Loughlin of the University of Chicago; Professor J. B. Clark, Columbia University; Professor Henry C. Adams, University of Michigan; Horace White, Esq., N. Y. C.; Carroll D. Wright, Clarke College.

Those who are to compete are given until June, 1909, to complete their essays and are divided into three classes as follows:

Class A—Any American without limit; first prize $600, and second $400.

Class B—Any undergraduate of any American college; first prize $300, and second $200.

The following subjects are suggested for classes A and B by the committee:

1. German and American methods of regulating trusts.
2. The logic of "Progress and Poverty."
3. What are the ultimate ends of trade unions and can these be gained by affiliation of the principles of monopoly?
4. In view of existing railway progress, should the U. S. encourage the construction of waterways?
5. Is it to be expected that the present and recent production of gold will cause a higher level of prices?

Class C is for those who have not had the advantages of an academic training.

Suggestions:

1. The best scheme for uniform corporation accounts.
2. Desirable methods of improving our trade with commerce.
3. The proper spheres of the trust companies and the commercial bank.
4. The relation of Oriental immigration to American industries.
5. The relative efficiency of American and European labor in manufacturing industries.

The prize for this class is $500.

The University of Minnesota has been afflicted with a smallpox epidemic which has caused a threat from the State health authorities to close the University.

It was very gratifying
Good Work. indeed to see such a fine crowd of College fellows at the meeting at which Governor Hughes spoke last Thursday evening. The singing was excellent and the yelling superb, never have the fellows shown better spirit in a good cause. A good thing to notice about the meeting was that all whether of the Governor's party or not joined in showing their appreciation of his work which is for the good of the people. We have good reason to feel proud of our Honorary Chancellor for '08. Not only that but the College received its due recognition by having Dean Ripton preside.

The Board think it will tend History. to arouse interest in the College if they print articles of historical value to the readers. This will account for the articles that will appear in the Concordiensis from time to time.
If anyone has records or knows of any things that have happened in the Gray Old Walls, you would be conferring a great favor on the Board by informing them of the same.

When we come to take A Suggestion. inventory of our College songs, we find that none have been composed lately. Last Fall everyone realized this fact when we were given a copy of songs to learn which had been got together for one game and on the spur of the moment too. With our coming football season in view it seems not only needful but even necessary that something must be done to get a good football song to cheer our team on to the victory that surely will be theirs. Every fellow should try his hand at a song it may not be sung but there is a good chance for the writers of the songs chosen to become famous. Let each one, therefore, try.

FIRE! FIRE!! FIRE!!!

The stillness and quiet calm that reigned supreme upon the peaceful campus last Wednesday afternoon was suddenly broken by the shrieking of the fire whistle, as it madly blew. Twice it sounded. Twice did we count it in great suspense, as we heard it blow 27 and then a 1 followed; and we stood aghast for we knew that 271 was, according to the directory in our Freshmen Bibles, the fire alarm number of the college campus. Oh, Horrors! Terrible! Appalling!! The college must surely be being devoured by the relentless, raging flames, by the "good servant but bad master."

Terror seized us all. Madly we rushed from the dormitories and frat houses and saw the thick, black smoke rising in dense clouds above the campus.

We started on a rush for the scene of the calamity, but before we could reach the place the fire apparatus had arrived and had gotten as near as they could, which was not very near on account of the primeval forest surrounding the great, massive barn. For this, we found, was what was at the mercy of the fearful element fire. Soon sizzling streams of water fiercely fought the flames. But see! 'the conquering hero comes.' On rushes C. B. Pond plying the relentless lash to his panting, breathless steed, as he tears pell-mell across the campus, vying with the puffing fire-engine itself, and shouting at the top of his lungs to the crowd of urchins to clear out of the way. On, on he comes!

But ah! Are the horses still in the midst of the flames? Oh, no. Two valiant frosh, with courage spurred on by desperation and undaunted by the fearful danger had at an early stage of the fire rushed boldly into the glowing, fiery furnace and rescued the faithful beasts. There seems to be some dispute as to the names of the rescuers; but, whoever they were, deathless names are theirs! Enroll them among our country's heroes.

A bicycle and a sulky plow were also saved from the flames, and so a great loss of property was averted. But, horrible dictu, the mowing machine the hay rake, and some more of George Clute's machinery have gone up in smoke. So this fall the annual harvest of the campus cannot be gathered in. The grass will grow shoulder high on the campus, for there is no mowing machine to cut it in broad, heavy swaths. The campus must become nothing but an extensive meadow, unless Spike's green cow can increase its digestive capacity, till it can graze the whole campus over.

The fire is over. The barn lies in smoking ruins. The last long lingering urchin has finally left the scene of the fire. All is quiet again. Former Assistant Treasurer Pond estimates the loss at fully $1,000. Oh, may the raging flames never again visit the college campus!

There are at present 36 State Universities in the United States. The dates of their charters extend from 1785, when the University of Georgia was chartered to 1893 when the charter was granted the University of Montana. The University of Michigan leads in number of students in 1905-06, having 4,571, Illinois second with 4,074. Nevada having the least only 89.

COLGATE—UNION.

A game that was in reality a decided victory for Union was played with Colgate at Hamilton last Saturday. Colgate made one run in the first inning and two in the fourth. Union made her first two in the fifth, and then in the sixth showed what she was made of by scoring four more.

It had been raining during the entire game, not enough, however, to interfere with the game. After four runs had been batted out in the first half of the sixth inning, they saw what was coming, so declined to continue the game on the grounds that it was raining. They even claimed the game, taking the score from the end of the fifth inning, which was proper, as the game was called by the umpire. He refused to stay out in the rain any longer.

It was finally arranged that this game should not count in the N. Y. S. I. A. U. championship if there can be another game played between the two teams in its place.

The individual playing was excellent but the rain caused a few errors.

Score at end of fifth inning—Colgate, 3; Union, 2.

Final score—Colgate, 3; Union, 6.

Score by innings:

	R. H. E.
Union	0	0	0	0	2	4	—	6	8	2
Colgate	1	0	0	2	0	*	—	3	4	0

TENNIS.

On account of rain the tennis tournament has been delayed somewhat, but it is hoped that the finals will be played off by this week Wednesday night. The first and second rounds have been played and the third is well along. There are four or five faculty members entered and much interest is shown in the outcome of the tournament. The games have been played on the different fraternities' courts owing to the fact that the college courts are not as yet in playing condition.

The game with the Golf Club scheduled for last Saturday has been postponed until this week Saturday, because the weather prevented.

The first game with Cornell will be played here on the college courts, Monday the 11th, and we hope to win in this also.

TRACK.

Just at present the track prospects are not especially bright, but a few men are working.

Rankin is doing good work with the weights and may break both college records, the shot-put and hammer-throw.

Streibert is getting in good shape and has a good show of adding a few inches to his record in pole-vault.

Dennis is showing up well with the low-hurdles and in the broad jump.

Also Bently in sprints and Travis in long distance runs show a possibility of making good.

On the whole the men are not showing up as they should and it is a certainty that no good team can be put in the field unless the men come out and do some work, at least.

There is fairly good "college spirit" shown here in connection with football and baseball and there is no reason at all why an equal amount should not be manifested in track. No man could come out once or twice a week for football or baseball and do anything worth while and it is the same with track.

The High School boys seem to be taking advantage of the lack of spirit here and are using the oval in flocks, so much so that they are in the way at times, although there is not much "way" to be in.

Reserved for the Parker Pen Co.

As perhaps you all know the finances of the "Concordy" are in an exceedingly poor condition and consequently the management feels forced to take this trade advertisement of "The Parker Pen," which is to be paid for in fountain pens, in the hope that he might dispose of them. If you would assist the management in realizing a monetary return for the space invested, it would be greatly appreciated.

THE 1909 GARNET.

The Garnet is out at last or rather shall we say already? It is a work of which the college may be proud. The cover is of garnet leather with letters and the college seal printed in gold. To describe the contents would be too great a task as all articles and pictures are interesting. The cuts of the fraternity houses are a new idea and of this we heartily approve. The editors must surely have taken out accident policies before they allowed this issue to appear for there are certainly some pretty good knocks about old friends.

The paper on which it is printed is of excellent quality and the cuts have never been excelled. In short there are 272 pages of interesting college matter and all through the editors followed the motto "With charity for none and mallets towards all."

There were no exercises on "The Hill" last Saturday because the Faculty deemed it advisable to give the day wholly over to condition exams.

Ashey: "Well, C——, I had rather have you read this poetry like prose than to have you perform the gyrations that I—h does. He hops, skips, jumps and when he doesn't do that he turns somersaults."

The subjects for the Ingham Essay prizes have been announced. They are: 1. The Growth of the German National Spirit in the Nineteenth Century. 2. The Loyalists of the American Revolution. These essays must be handed in on or before May 15, as also is the case with the Allen Essays, both of which are open to Seniors only.

Prof. Horace G. McKean spoke at a meeting of the Economic Club of the Bellevue Reformed Church held Thursday evening, April 23.

Gentle spring is here! The annual throng of Polack women has invaded the Campus hunting for dandelion greens.
