INSPECTION TRIP OF ELECTRICALS.

Friday and Saturday of last week were spent by the students of the Electrical Engineering Department in an inspection trip to New York city. About twenty-two men went on the trip, which turned out to be a success in every respect. Before the trip Mr. E. J. Berg of the General Electric Company gave us a talk, pointing out the important things to look for and to ask questions about. The success of the trip was largely due to the valuable information and suggestions given by Mr. Berg.

On Friday afternoon we inspected the New York Edison system. The party met at the 44 West 27th Street sub-station of the company, where Mr. Torchir, their chief engineer, read a paper which he had prepared for us on the Edison system. Copies of this paper were given us with a map of the city showing the location of the company's mains, power stations, sub-stations, etc. After the lecture we were conducted by Mr. Torchir and several of his assistants, through the sub-stations. Here we saw the rotary converters and storage batteries which are common to all of these sub-stations. The switching arrangements were of particular interest, because of their compact form. The system of multiple busses by which the feeder voltage could be regulated for any desired load, could be regulated, was explained to us. We were also shown how the voltage on any part of the system could be read at the station by means of a system of potential wires reaching from all parts of the city.

After leaving the sub-station we descended into a manhole, where the method of leading cables about the city underground was made clear. We then entered a Fifth Avenue buss, which was waiting for us, and were quickly transported to the waterside stations of the New York Edison Company. These stations are located on the East River and are thus enable to receive their coal by boat and have plenty of condenser water at a minimum cost. In inspecting these stations, two in number, the party was divided into groups, each group being furnished with competent guidance. We first inspected station No. 1. This station is mostly engine driven, its total capacity being 67,500 kilowatts, consisting of eleven Westinghouse compound three-cylinder engine-driven sets and five General Electric turbines. All this apparatus, located as it is on one floor, is very impressive.

After being shown everything of interest in station No. 1 we visited station No. 2. This station is of more recent design, consisting of turbine driven sets. Its total capacity is 72,000 kilowatts, consisting of six General Electric and two Westinghouse turbines. One of the striking features of this station was the switchboard arrangement. The boards are of marble and form a hemispherical room, from any part of which all the meters and apparatus controlling the station can be seen.

We were at the station just as the peakload was coming on, about 5 o'clock. This is the busiest time and everything about was in operation. The boilers were all being fired up and one machine after another was brought up to speed and phased in, while others were slowly turning over, waiting to take their share of the load when needed.

Amongst all this activity, however, there was no confusion. Up in the gallery of the station sat a man, the load despatcher they called him, who had the whole system under his control. By means of a board before him he could tell the exact condition of the load in any part of the system and it was his business to distribute it properly amongst the various sub-stations.

On Friday evening those who desired to do so attended the meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. At this meeting a paper on electric heating was read and discussed.

We met Saturday morning at the Madison Avenue office of the New York Central Railroad Company. Here we found Mr. Katte, chief engineer of electric traction, who by means of maps and diagrams described in a brief and interesting way the electric system of the New York Central. Mr. Katte then conducted us over the 45th Street bridge, from which we obtained a very comprehensive view of the Grand Central Station terminal, yards, tracks, etc., as well as the construction work. From here we walked up Lexington Avenue, which parallels the terminal yard, to the fiftieth sub-station, where we were shown the battery rooms, rotary sub-station, signal sub-station, etc. Emerging from the signal station we entered the north end of the storage yard, where we had an opportunity of inspecting an electric locomotive and some of the multiple unit cars.

This took all the morning and we were glad to hurry away for lunch and get ready for the ball game in the afternoon.

STUNG!

He (nervously)—“Er’er, Louise, er’er there’s something been trembling on my lips for the last two months.”

She—“Yes; so I see; why don’t you shave it off?” —Ex.

Last Saturday Dean Ripton and Prof. H. G. McKean were in Philadelphia at the University of Pennsylvania in attendance at a meeting of delegates from the Middle States and Maryland, held for the purpose of organizing an college entrance certificate board within that territory. The idea is to obtain uniformity in regard to the entrance certificate in these colleges, along the same lines as in the New England colleges.

Last week the Yale football management sent to the Brown management the football which was used at New Haven in the Yale-Brown game on November 7. This was a very appropriate act of courtesy on the part of the Blue.

Following is a letter received by Dr. McComber from the physical director at Brown, to whom Dr. Mac sent a copy of the Athletic Board constitution:

Brown University, Providence, No. 12, 1908.
S. A. McComber, M. D., Professor of Physiology and Physical Training, Union College, Schenectady, N. Y.:

My Dear Sir:—Accept thanks and congratulations for your constitution and by-laws of the Athletic Board of Union College. I have read them over with great care and interest and I think the Athletic Board at Union has made one of the most complete constitutions that I have ever seen.

Yours very truly,

Fred W. Marvel.

The following is taken from the N. Y. Tribune of November 16:

The really fine use of a long forward pass by Union in the second half of the game with the New York University on Saturday, which was directly responsible for the touchdown that tied the score, is worthy of comment. In Starbuck, the Schenectady team has a man whose long pass is the best that has been seen on any gridiron this season, and the Union tackles, D. and W. Brown, were particularly clever in receiving it.

THE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

The unusual interest which has been manifested in the work of the Y. M. C. A. this fall is still being maintained. Despite the fact that so many fellows were in New York, the meeting last Sunday afternoon was well attended. The speaker was Dr. A. Russell Stevenson, who has just returned from a summer in Europe. He spoke on “The Way in Which Christ Can Help the Young Man.”

Mr. John H. Safford, who was for several years one of the State secretaries of College Christian Associations, was on “the Hill” Tuesday afternoon. He met with the Y. M. C. A. cabinet in the afternoon and made suggestions for the year’s work.

At the prayer meeting Mr. Safford gave a very interesting talk on the work of the international movement of the Christian Associations. The first Y. M. C. A. was organized in 1858, while today there are 57,000 students, who are members of the college Y. M. C. A. Last year there were over 48,000 men enrolled in Bible Study. Mr. Safford went on to say that never before have so many leading men in athletics and all college activities been active workers in the Christian Associations.

After Mr. Safford’s talk, Dean Ripton began his course in Bible Study. He gave an introductory talk that was full of interest. With the Dean as a normal class leader, an excellent course is assured.

WITH THE DEBATERS.

Interest is beginning to be aroused in the annual Allison-Foote debate, which will probably be held on January 15th.

This year the Philomatheans submit the question and the Adelphics have the choice of sides. The executive committee of the Philomathean Society has been considering the question for the debate and it will probably be submitted to the Adelphics some time next week.

The freshmen of the Adelpic Society decided that on account of the pressure of other debating work they would be unable to accept the challenge of the Philomathean freshmen.

Both societies have held their regular weekly meetings. The subject for debate with the Philomatheans was: Resolved, That a high protective tariff would be detrimental to the best interests of the United States. The affirmative was defended by W. L. Cavert, '10; Gillies, '12, and Payne, '12. The negative was upheld by Chaffee, '10; Traynor, '12, and Potter, '12.

The following subject was discussed in the Adelpic Society: Resolved, That reciprocity with Canada would serve the best interests of the United States. The affirmative was represented by Coplon, '10, and Fink, '11. The negative by Mould, '09, and McGill, '11.

A TOAST.

Here's to the friends we've loved the best,
The songs we've sung and the lips we've pressed;
The ankle neat, and the figure trim,
And the bubbles that dance o'er the sparkling brim;

To maidens dark and maidens fair—
The Eternal Feminine everywhere;
And the Face that floats in a mystic haze,
Through all the dreams of our college days.

—Targum.

Prof. Felix Adler of Columbia, the Roosevelt professor, and Prof. Davis of Yale, the "exchange" professor, will soon begin their work at the University of Berlin. The introduction of the American professors will be held in the main building and the Crown Prince may represent the Kaiser at the ceremonies. Prof. Adler will deliver lectures on the ideals of American liberty.

Dr. Charles W. Eliot has resigned from the presidency of Harvard University, a position which he has held continuously for nearly forty years. Dr. Eliot, at the meeting of the president and fellows of Harvard College held in Boston on October 26, presented the following letter:

"Gentlemen—I hereby resign the office of president of Harvard University, the resignation to take effect at your convenience, but not later than May 19, 1909.

"The president's intimate association with the other members of the corporation in common service to the university is one of the most precious privileges of his highly privileged office. For this association with fifteen friends who are dead, and seven who are living, I shall always be profoundly grateful.

"Congratulating you on your labors and satisfactions in the past, and on the sure prospect of greater labors and satisfactions to come, I am, with high respect,

"Your friend and servant,

"Charles W. Eliot.

"October 10, 1918."

The resignation was accepted by the Board of Overseers only after nearly two weeks conference, "the board having, with the utmost difficulty, arrived at the conclusion that a proper regard for the president's wishes required them to relieve him of the arduous duties of his office." The announcement was given out yesterday that President Eliot's resignation will take effect on May 19, 1909. The election of his successor will be made before that time by the Harvard corporation and will be communicated to the Board of Overseers for their consent.

Sixty-six students are enrolled in the department of journalism recently established at the University of Wisconsin. Similar departments are to be established at Trinity College, Dublin, Birmingham University and the University of Cambridge, England.

A school of Sanitary Science and Public Health has been founded at Cornell University this year.

Ursinus is to have a glee club which will include the "co-eds."

Although much has been said in Retrospect of the N. Y. U. Game. regard to our treatment at the hands of the officials in last Saturday's game with N. Y. U., the criticism against the college itself seems to be unjust. In the first place it is not in keeping with good loyal spirit of fair play to criticize after the game a matter that should have been attended to before the game started. We accepted their officials and left our fate in their hands to a certain extent. N. Y. U. was not to blame for our accepting the men whom they selected to have charge of the game. Again, in every case where we differed in our opinions with the officials the decision was very close and could have been decided either way by the spectators without any effort. In fact we always knew the reason for the penalties before any decisions were announced, thus showing the closeness of these actions. Of course we cannot say whether the officials really penalized when they should not have done so and knew they were not making fair decisions or, indeed, when they continually penalized us and simply warned N. Y. U. for her breaking of the rules, but that is their loss, not ours. For no man could intentionally be unfair and still retain his own self respect. In regard to the game itself it was one of the best games our team has ever played. The team was as one man in every play and credit should be given to no one player more than another. The cheering of the Garnet supporters was not what it should have been with such numbers, but still it was good and the singing was excellent. Looking back at the present season, it cannot be denied that success has been ours from start to finish, even though we did lose the N. Y. S. I. A. A. pennant and played four tie games. Never has Union seen such love for her depicted in every face and never such a love for fair play as have been exhibited in the past season.

COLLEGE SPIRIT.

There is no doubt but that a college man's first duty is to himself and his classes, but second only to these is his duty to his fellow students and to his college as a whole.

The cultivation of love for his Alma Mater, or in other words, getting into the spirit of his college, is one of the most important things to be derived from his course there.

College spirit in general is manifested in a number of different ways. It is shown to a greater or less degree on the athletic field, in the class rooms, at the college meetings and in innumerable other places. A student's spirit is particularly shown in his home town, both during his course there and after he has completed it. He should lose no opportunity to induce other students, students that would make the college the better for there being there to come to his college instead of to some other place that they may have had in mind.

The first element necessary, however, to make another believe that his college is the best is to believe himself with all his heart that it is.

How many fellows are there that do not think that their mothers are the very best in the world? How many who would grant for one instant that there is a better country than their own? It should be precisely the same way with their college. They should never admit, not even to themselves, that there is a single college better than theirs. In this lies the fundamental principle of college spirit.

Colleges are judged to a greater or less degree among men and women in the outside world by the spirit which is, or at least has, the reputation of being prevalent at that institution. The amount of knowledge to be derived from books depends entirely on the student. One college can give him as much as another if he goes after it rightly. But in college life and college spirit each college differs most widely from every other. This depends almost entirely upon the undergraduates, first individually and second taken as a whole.

If every student in a college believes that his fellow students there are as fine as at any college and that the traditions, the professors and the president are second to none, it is possible to bring others to his way of looking at it. On the other hand if he doubts these, there is small chance of his being able to do so.

He should know that there is but one college in the same way as there is but one mother and one country.

He may be there because of financial considerations, because it is near his home, because his relatives have been there before him or because of other reasons, but the idea is not how he happened to be there. He is there. It is his Alma Mater and he should use every means within his power to make it the better for his having been there, to raise it, if ever so slightly in the eyes of the world.

Dr. Steinmetz delivered a lecture on thermodynamics on Thursday evening before the Schenectady branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

The response to the recent appeal for more football candidates was encouraging, although many more should have responded.

Great interest on the part of the students is being shown in the Y. M. C. A. This is especially true of the Tuesday evening meetings.

LAST GAME OF SEASON PLAYED WITH N. Y. U. AT NEW YORK.

N. Y. U., 5; Union, 5.

The last game of the season was played last Saturday with the N. Y. U. team at New York. The game was a hard fought one from start to finish. The playing of the Garnet team showed the result of the whole season's coaching under "Bill." The last five minutes of the game the team played the best it has this season, the team work and plays being at times brilliant.

The support given the team by the alumni and students was excellent. Notwithstanding the fact that the game was played away, the members of the team felt as if they were playing "at home," because of the singing and cheering. This was kept up during the entire game and was reflected in the good work done by the team.

There have been rumors around to the effect that the decisions during the game were prejudiced and gave the advantage to N. Y. U. several times. These rumors are without cause. Taking the word of one of the men, we find that the penalties were deserved, with the possible exception of one or two. It is stated by one of the players that Starbuck, in his long run, did step on the line, thus causing the ball to be brought back. Union was penalized nearly the length of the field and yet she carried the ball farther than N. Y. U. did. N. Y. U. used a short forward pass, but Union made good use of a very long one, failing in the attempt once or twice.

During the latter half of the game there were a great many substitutes put in and their work showed the strength of the squad in general.

The Game: First half—

Doran Brown kicked off to N. Y. U. and Sellnow downed the man in his tracks. N. Y. U. was held on her 30-yard line and kicked to Streibert, who was downed in the center of the field. Here Hequembourg made two 10-yard gains, Stewart three and Streibert five more. At this point Union was penalized 10 yards for holding. Then Streibert punted, and again N. Y. U. being held for downs, punted to Starbuck, who made a splendid 60-yard run, but was forced to take the ball back, because of going out of bounds. Starbuck kicked to New York and they again kicked to Walton, who returned the ball ten yards. Streibert made ten yards and Stewart five more. Here Union attempted the forward pass, but the ball was lost to N. Y. U. on a fumble. New York kicked to Starbuck, who returned the ball twenty yards. Stewart made 15 yards, taking the ball to N. Y. U.'s three-yard line, but here was held. New York kicked out to Starbuck, who heeled the ball on the 45-yard line. Doran made a pretty kick for goal, but the ball missed, going under the bar by a few inches. The ball was brought out by N. Y. U. to the middle of the field and then by clever trick plays and a fine 20-yard run, carried the ball over for a touchdown. Goal was missed.

Score: N. Y. U., 5; Union, 0.

The half closed in a few moments.

Second half:

New York kicked off to Hurlbut on the five-yard line and he returned the ball ten yards. In a few minutes N. Y. U. carried the ball to Union's five-yard line, but could get no further, thus losing the ball. Starbuck punted 30 yards and the ball was recovered by the Garnet on the 35-yard line. Starbuck gained ten yards on a quarterback run, and then Streibert carried the ball to center of field. Here N. Y. U. held and received the ball on downs. An attempted forward pass lost the ball to Union. A forward pass was used by Union for twenty yards, Kriegsman made five and Streibert ten. Penalty of ten yards for hurdling. D. Brown received a thirty-yard forward pass from Starbuck on the twenty-yard line. Hequembourg gained ten yards. Another forward pass here failed and N. Y. U. punted to center of field. Again Union carried the ball to within a short distance of the line and again they were forced to the center of the field. Starbuck made another thirty-yard pass to W. Brown, who carried it ten yards more. Hequembourg went through the line for seven yards, and then W. Brown was sent over for a touchdown. Doran missed the goal.

Score: N. Y. U., 5; Union, 5.

Time was called with the ball in the center of the field.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON.

Although the football season is over, it may not be amiss to consider for a moment what has been accomplished the past season. Several men were lost by graduation and much of the new material was inexperienced; thus, at the opening of college, prospects for a first-class team were not very bright. However, Coach Murray started to get the men into shape.

The first two games resulted in a tie, the score in the Stevens Institute game being 0-0, and in the St. Lawrence game 5-5. Then the squad, under the efficient guidance of the coach, worked with a will and the result was a team which was fully the equal of Wesleyan, and which defeated Hamilton, for the first time in several years, by the decisive score of 6-18. Although the score was 0-0, the game with Wesleyan had all the effects of a victory, for it showed beyond a doubt that Union had a team worthy of the best support. This was evidently appreciated, for it has been a long time since such enthusiasm has been shown at a football game on the "Hill" as was shown in the Hamilton-Union game.

From 6-18 in our favor to 17-0 against us seems like a far cry, yet that was the measure of our defeat at the hands of Rochester in the next game. The week following the Colgate team, which has made good this fall against teams of such calibre as Williams and Syracuse, rolled up 24 points to the Garnet's 4. In this game our team was handicapped by the greater average weight of Colgate—nearly 30 pounds. The Hobart team was Union's opponent in the last home game of the season and proved to be an easy victim, Union scoring 39 points to Hobart's 5. The last game of the season, and what proved to be the fourth tie game of the season, was played with N. Y. U. at New York. Score, 5-5.

During the season a total of eight games were played; four were tie games, two games were lost and two were won. Considering the fact that the team was crippled by the loss of Captain Potter early in the season, and Walser a little later, this is a most satisfactory record and speaks well for the efforts of Coach Murray.

COLLEGE MEETING.

On Monday morning last the chapel rang with cheers for the football team and its captains.

Kriegsman, '10, said that our team deserved to have won the N. Y. U. game, the reason for our not doing so being that unfair decisions were rendered throughout the game. In cheering and singing he said that the Union alumni and that part of the student body which attended the game outclassed the N. Y. U. boys in every respect.

Cavert, '10, gave notices regarding the Y. M. C. A. meeting and ended by speaking of the excellent opportunities offered for Bible study in Dean Rip-ton's class.

Notices of the Glee Club rehearsal were given by Corbin, '09.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Alma Mater.

THE PRESS CLUB.

The Press Club held an important meeting last week. Considerable business was transacted and valuable suggestions were made.

President Potter appointed as the new bulletin committee Hill, '12, and Trumbull, '12, who had been serving in the capacity of head reporters.

The suggestion was made that the Union men from different preparatory schools in the country should secure at the secretary's office pictures of the college campus, have them framed and present these pictures to their respective schools. In this way at a very small expense, Union College would be brought constantly to the attention of men who are preparing to enter some college.

There was also a discussion of the plan of sending out news bulletins to various preparatory school publications.

President Potter reported that the club had had postal cards containing announcements of the N. Y. U. game sent out to Union alumni living in New York city and in that vicinity.

A committee was appointed to see if arrangements could be made to have "The Concordiensis" sent regularly to the largest preparatory and High Schools in this part of the country.

Faust, '11, treasurer of the club, made the monthly financial report.

Dr. Barnes urged all the members of the club to do personal work during vacations and college recesses in getting fellows who are preparing for a college course interested in Union.

COLLEGE BRIEFS.

Verbeck, ex-1911, has entered the medical college at Burlington, Vt.

The Schenectady High School defeated the Johnstown High School by a score of 16 to 0 on the campus last Saturday.

Last Saturday's chapel exercises were held with very few present, owing to the football game held in New York on that day.

DR. CADY'S LECTURE.

The first of this year's series of lectures on Egyptology is to be given this afternoon by Rev. Putnam Cady, D. D., at 4:30, in the university chapel. The subject will be "Ancient Egyptian Art as Illustrated by Recent Discoveries."

Dr. Cady's lecture courses are very popular at Union. During 1906-1907 he lectured on Egypt. Last year he spoke on "The Greek Cities East of the Euphrates." This year the general subject will be Egypt and Egyptian Art, but the individual subjects of the lectures are not obtainable at the present time. The full list will be published in the Concordiensis later.

Dr. Cady enjoys a wide and excellent reputation among archaeologists, he being one of the few fellows of the Royal Geographical Society outside of Great Britain. His work in the East and particularly in the Red Sea region has been very extensive, giving him a high rank in the list of authorities on archaeology.

Dr. Ellery presided at the first annual dinner of the Federation of Men's Clubs of Schenectady churches on Thursday evening.
