UNION UNIVERSITY

CHARLES ALEXANDER RICHMOND, D. D., LL. D., Chancellor

UNION COLLEGE

The college offers the following undergraduate and graduate courses:

1. Courses leading to the degree of A. B.

CLASSICAL COURSE A.---Greek is required for admission to this course. French and German are included in addition to the ancient languages.

CLASSICAL COURSE B.---This course may be pursued by candidates who satisfy the requirements for admission to the Ph. B. course. Greek is begun on entrance and is required for four years.

2. Course leading to the degree of Ph. B.

LATIN-SCIENTIFIC COURSE---This course offers Latin without Greek, for which is substituted additional work in modern languages and science.

3. Course leading to the degree of B. S.

SCIENTIFIC COURSE---This course is based upon the study of mathematics and the sciences.

4. Course leading to the degree of B. E.

GENERAL ENGINEERING COURSE---This course offers the foundation of a broad engineering education, comprising mathematics, the sciences, the fundamental principles of the special branches of the profession, and some training in history, economics and modern languages.

SIX YEAR PH. B.-B. E. COURSE---This course combines the above four-year engineering course with the Latin-scientific course.

SANITARY ENGINEERING COURSE---This differs from the general engineering course in substituting special work in sanitary engineering for some of the general engineering studies.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING COURSE---This course is intended to give a broad and thorough engineering education, with the special instruction requisite for electrical engineering.

5. Courses leading to graduate degrees.

COURSE LEADING TO DEGREE OF M. C. E.---This course of one year of graduate study consists of lectures, laboratory practice and research work.

COURSE LEADING TO DEGREE OF M. E. E.---This course of one year of graduate study consists of lectures, laboratory practice and research work.

COURSE LEADING TO DEGREE OF PH. D.---This course of two years of graduate study requires for admission the degree of M. E. E. or an equivalent.

UNION 4, TUFTS 3

Hummer Humbles Heavy Hitting New Englanders. Timely Hitting and Costly Errors by the Visitors Do the Rest.

Tufts' baseball team arrived in Schenectady with the scalps of Cornell and Syracuse still fresh in their belts. They looked and acted the part of experienced men at the game. Harris, Tufts pitcher, had shut out Cornell the same week and was scheduled to oppose Union. Our team had gone to Columbia the week before, but wet grounds and inclement weather had prevented the game. Consequently they lined up against the Tufts nine for their opening game of the season. More than half the team were green men and what the result of the game would be, especially since Tufts had a winning streak, no one could foretell. Tufts showed up well in practice and every man played his position like a veteran. It was plainly to be seen that they were in mid-season form while Union was still not yet fully acquainted with all the ins and outs of the diamond although they showed lots of snap and speed. The team has been on the diamond not quite a week and has been coming along rapidly ever since. It is too bad that bad weather and other conditions keep the team in the grass so late every year and it is all the more to their credit to win the opening game.

The weather was the worst kind for air-tight baseball. A cold wind blew across the campus and cut into the bones of the players and spectators. Few fans remained seated for long yet they stood around and loyally watched the game until the finish. The players were almost glad when their turn came to leave the bench and take the field where they could jump around and keep warm. Considering the weather it was nothing short of remarkable that the game was as fast as it was and the pitching so steady.

Coach Dawson picked Hummer to start the game. How long any one pitcher would last was impossible to tell. None of them were old 'varsity men of experience. None had pitched more than a few innings at a time. At best it seemed as though, whatever pitcher went in, he would not last over four innings. Hummer had been coming along splendidly all last week and showed that he was the right man to take the box on Saturday.

He pitched a fine game and inspired all the men back of him by his confidence and headiness. He had the game well in hand throughout and did not pass a man except the first man up in the first inning whom he clipped on the arm. Pitching against a strong wind before which it was practically impossible to warm up into decent shape, he sped them over for seven innings and was going better at the end with more stuff than at the beginning. His control was great and his curves broke mighty well. In one inning three men faced him and the same three walked from the plate back to the bench with Jimmy Glenn's complimentary "Y'er out" resounding in their ears. Perhaps the greatest satisfaction in having Hummer is that he is one of us on the Hill. In the past years we have had to depend almost entirely on the Albany departments for the pitching end of the team. On trips it was never certain until train time whether the team would have a pitcher along or not. This year the pitchers are all on the hill and if the rest of the team shows up as well as the pitching staff, we will be out for the championship pennant with the same bid we made for it this year in football and basketball.

There was little real hitting by either team. Consequently, the infield had little opportunity of showing what it was worth. Houghton showed up well on first covering the bag in good style. Captain Giddings at second covered a lot of ground and stopped a couple that ordinarily would have been clean hits. "Dutch" Nauman and "Jake" Beaver did not have any chances. "Dave" Beaver caught Hummer and worked consistently the whole game. "Dave" has a good line of talk and held up the pitcher at all times. He took every chance offered him and managed the "insides" like an old timer. Hutchens in left field pulled down a couple of nice ones while Barclay in right, caught a man at the plate by a beautiful throw into Beaver's mit.

The first four men on the batting list all hit well. Barclay, by his position as fourth man up, was depended upon to stick well and he did. The first time up he rapped a dandy double into center field and the other two times he landed on first by a single and a safe bunt. Giddings hit between second base and the fielders for one sack and D.

Beaver drove a hot grounder over second into center field. Nauman pushed out a nice single and at another time reached first on an error by Tufts' first baseman.

Tufts started the scoring in the first inning by making one run. In the second, Union made it a tie, Barclay scoring on a squeeze play. In the fifth, Tufts landed on Hummer for a minute and scored twice. With two men on bases and nobody out, matters began to look serious but Hummer tightened up and Tufts finished the inning with the same men dying on bases. In our part of the sixth, D. Beaver singled, was advanced a bag by Nauman's sacrifice toward third. Errors by Tufts left both men on bases. Barclay brought in Beaver by a bunt, himself getting first base and Nauman scored on Houghton's long fly to left field. J. Beaver drove a hot one through the third baseman's legs and Barclay romped home with the winning run. Tuft came in for final turn at bat with the grim determination to do or die, and they died for Hummer retired their heaviest hitters without a hit.

COMMUNICATIONS

To the editor of the Concordiensis:
Dear Sir:

Will you kindly announce through your columns that I should be very glad if all Union College men who are engaged in engineering work, both alumni and non-graduates, and who may be desirous or willing to make changes in their present engagements, would send me their present address together with a statement of their engagement and salary, a brief outline of their engineering experience since leaving college and a statement of the general type of work in which they would prefer an engagement; also the salary they would expect and the minimum they would accept.

I am constantly receiving requests for information concerning men who, in addition to a good college training, have had some engineering experience. I should always prefer to give preference in such cases to Union College engineers, many of whom keep me advised as to their engagements; but some of whom do not. It is to reach this latter class that I am making this request.

Yours very truly,
Olin H. Landreth.

CLASSICAL CLUB VERY SUCCESSFUL

The Classical Club of Union College wishes to express its appreciation of the fine audience which attended the lecture last Wednesday evening, in the Chapel. College students, high school students, townspeople, professors and their wives, listened to Professor Gallup who discussed the subject, "A Latin Lover in Italy." President Richmond introduced the speaker as the principal of the Albany High School and promised the audience an interesting talk.

All of Professor Gallup's lantern views, "except the map," were taken by himself. With the aid of these views and the relation of his personal experiences, the speaker strove to correct the somewhat prevalent error that Italy is a backward country. The set of views was particularly valuable, for it was not the usual stereotyped group. The pictures were taken among the people, and not along the usual travel routes. Thus the real life of the Italian people of to-day was displayed. Not only were the views and the lecture excellent, but the delightfully humorous way in which the talk was presented pleased all present. All who attended were well repaid for their time, as President Richmond said in his few concluding words of appreciation.

DELTA PHI CONVENTION

On Thursday morning, April 17, F. S. Harris '13 and R. H. Vaughan '14 left for Charlottesville, Va., where they attended the eighty-fifth annual convention of the Delta Phi Fraternity which was held under the auspices of the Rho chapter at the University of Virginia. U. S. Senator Joseph E. Ransdell, Union '82, who paid a visit to his Alma Mater this past February, represented the Alpha Chapter at the speakers' table.

THE SECOND BASKETBALL LEAGUE

The fight for recognition which the smaller colleges of the East have been waging for the past three years has at last resulted in the proposal by the Inter-collegiate League to form a second league composed of St. Lawrence, Colgate, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Rochester, Syracuse, New York University, the College of the City of New York, and Union. These eight colleges would play against each other in a regular schedule of games and, at the end of the season, the champions would play a series of games with the champions of the original Inter-collegiate League and this series would definitely decide the championship of the East. This plan would do away completely with the usual post-season controversy over the respective merits of various teams and when the championship series have been played, every college in the two leagues would feel that fair play had been shown and that the very best team had won the coveted championship.

The proposition has been submitted to the various colleges and a meeting of representatives from the eight institutions mentioned will be held in the near future in New York City. We feel that the plan would be a splendid thing for Union in that we could command greater prestige for our college by playing a more systematic schedule of games and having an opportunity to meet the champions of the Inter-collegiate League in a deciding series. This would give us a very clear opportunity to exhibit all our powers and ability. From an athletic standpoint, the proposed league would seem to be a splendid thing, looking at it from every standpoint. We should get more recognition from the larger colleges; should have a higher standing in the public eye and our reputation for athletic prowess would become even greater than at present. Of course, with our last year's team, practically intact for two more seasons, we need have little fear as to the results of any schedule of games but we must be far sighted enough to look ahead of the present into the future, when Union may some day not be represented by any such whirlwind aggregation as at present. The proposed league would increase the prestige of our present quintet and would help us when the college might have a weaker team.

Financially, the thing would seem, on its face, at least, destined to be successful. Just what financial basis would be agreed upon is not certain but if the present system were adhered to, Union would certainly profit by it. With two teams fighting neck to neck for first place in the league, the attendance at the games of these teams would naturally be far larger than when the game was simply a contest by whose outcome no percentage tables were to be affected and no championships definitely lost or won. We all saw this winter, how the people flocked to see a championship team and how much more would this be true if Union was a member of the proposed league of the faster smaller colleges.

We would like to see the plan thoroughly examined before any final action is taken, either for or against it. We believe it has many merits but it may have an equal number of defects. However, let us give it a fair show. Let us do all in our power to advance Union's name among those of other colleges and give her more prestige and renown. Our athletic prowess is increasing every year and the more we can do to have this recognized by the college world, the sooner will Union take her rightful place among the colleges of the East.

ADELPHIC WILL ELECT

The Adelpic society will elect its officers for next year at a meeting to-morrow afternoon at 4:30 P. M. President Male expects to transact other important business as well. The society has had a most successful year under the leadership of President Male, who piloted his team to a victory over the Philomatheans in the Allison-Foote debate last December.

PRESIDENT RICHMOND BUSY TO-MORROW

Professor Richmond will speak to-morrow at the annual dinner of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publisher's Association at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York. On May 1st, he will attend the reception and supper of the St. Andrew's Society in New York. He will be the principal speaker on May 6th, at the alumni commencement conference of the Auburn Theological Seminary at Auburn, N. Y., and on May 9th, he will attend the banquet and international peace conference at the Hotel Astor in New York City, in celebration of one hundred years of peace among English speaking people.

AN UNUSUAL END

(Accepted for the Literary Contest)

I first met Simeon Burr in the grade school, where we soon became very intimate. I wondered why it was that everybody considered him a fool. He was, it is true, not like other boys. With his moody, thoughtful expression, almost bordering on surliness, he seemed to shun the society of the rest of us. In the classroom he was a doubting Thomas. The teachers disliked him, probably because he got on their nerves by his rigid cross-examining, and he in turn held the teachers in contempt, because they disliked what he called thoroughness. However, he and I got along very well together. His originality and queer-ness seemed to have a strange fascination for me.

Sim never took anything for granted. There is where he differed from the majority of us. Most of us are too lazy to investigate and verify, we merely swallow whatever is doled out to us, and we ridicule the one who takes pains to verify to his own satisfaction the assertions of so-called authorities. Sim said the authorities were generally correct in their fundamentals, but why any reasoning human being should be compelled to accept the conclusions drawn from them by someone else, he could not see. The trouble with poor Burr was that he persisted in thinking in his own way, instead of following the well beaten path of convention. Hence he was a fool, an out-cast.

It was but natural that Burr should get along poorly in school. He was not the one to hide his doubts, and sometimes I was actually ashamed of his apparent stubbornness. However, we finished High School at the same time, and took engineering courses in the same college. Sim got along first rate in the technical subjects, but there were five other subjects in which he failed to make good during the first year.

Five conditions at the very start was too much, so Burr's father thought. He decided that it would be better for Sim to go into business. I must say I hated the prospect of continuing without him. He often told me that I was the only one whose companionship he liked. Poor fellow, he was misunderstood by everybody, of that I was convinced. Deep down in my heart, I knew he was the better man, yet my record in school had always been superior to his. However, Sim took it all cheerfully and told me on the quiet that he hadn't the faintest notion of going into business after vacation.

During our spare time, Sim and I had constructed in his father's barn, a crazy looking affair that Sim was pleased to call a flying machine. It was nothing like anybody else ever had made, or even seen before. Sim had his own ideas about aeroplanes, and he heartily disagreed with all the modern designers. He took the house fly as his model, and by careful study, he had drawn up what to us at least, seemed a plausible plan. I was at first only a spectator, but as time went on, and as I applauded his efforts, he decided to take me into partnership. I had nothing to say about the matter; as soon as Sim made up his mind to have me, he just said so, and that ended it. On account of Sim I often suffered ridicule at the hands of my family. They said I was a fool to let myself be led about by that "nutty Burr boy." However, that's beside the matter. Our flying machine was a fifteen foot monster with four great flapping wings, two on each side, and one above the other. It was all finished, except for the motor, which was still lacking, as up to then we had not the money to buy one.

We were sitting on the back porch of Sim's home one evening in June soon after school closed, discussing our vacation, when Sim jumped up.

"I'm going to spend my vacation money on a gas engine," he said suddenly.

cut Pop Hoffman and the Hills?" I asked very much disturbed.

Pop Hoffman was the genial landlord of "Mountain Lodge," in the Adirondacks, where for years he had been accustomed to spend two months each summer.

"I'm afraid Pop will have to do without me this year," said Sim, "as that is just what I mean to do. Moreover, you're going to chip in too, like a good fellow, and we'll both stay in town together."

I had a sickening feeling that I would again yield as I always did. I protested and pleaded in vain, and much as I disliked giving up my vacation in the hills, I consented. Fool that I was, all he had to do was open his mouth and command. I realized what a powerful hold he had on me; I was like clay in his hands.

As Sim was in a hurry, we ordered an aeroplane engine the very next day. In less than two weeks we received it, and three days later, we were ready to make our trial flight. Sim decided that he would go up first. He said he was going to make a short circuit of about ten miles radius, and then I could take a hand at it.

Long before daybreak on the 27th of June, we carried our machine to a large field about a half mile from the house. It was a wonderful morning, but we wasted little time in admiring the beauties of nature then. We started up our engine, and she began to hum merrily. Everything seemed O. K. We were jubilant. Before long, everybody would know of our exploit, and our future would be assured. Sim looked everything over carefully once more, and after declaring for the last time that "she was a dandy," he finally took his seat at the wheel. With his weight added to it, I had some difficulty in giving him his start. At last, however, the flying machine, "our flying machine," rose above me, and up she glided smoothly, with her giant wings flapping in the air. It was a beautiful sight. If Sim hadn't been so mean as to make this trial when nobody was around, what enthusiastic spectators we might have had, to be sure! But outside of us two, not a soul was visible.

"Good bye, Hal, see you later. She's working fine," came Sim's voice faintly from above. Up, up he went, as with craning neck my eyes followed. Fainter and fainter came the whirr of the engine, as the huge bird became smaller, of the engine, as the huge bird became smaller and smaller, and finally became a mere speck.

I have not much more to tell. That was the last I or anybody else have seen of Sim Burr. He seems to have vanished completely. It is over four years now since that fatal morning when I started him on his journey, and not one word have we heard from him, or from anyone who knows what become of him. Whether he met with an accident and perished, or whether he is playing king on some cannibal island, (as many heroes still persist in doing) remains a matter of conjecture.

FELIX HUNN, '16.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The vesper service Sunday afternoon was conducted by Rev. J. L. Cross of the Pilgrim Congregational church of Schenectady. He gave a splendid talk on "Faith." Next Sunday, Dr. Ellery has consented to address the Association. Dr. Ellery has spoken before and his talks are always very interesting and well worth hearing.

Shepard '12 and Male '13, expect to go to Rhinbeck, N. Y., Friday, as part of a Y. M. C. A. deputation.

—:O:—

Dean Ripton spoke Monday night in Johnstown at the Methodist church. His topic was "The House of Lords and British Democracy."

UNION RECEIVES $10.000

President Richmond announced yesterday that H. Melville Hanna, a member of the class of 1860 and a brother of the late Mark Hanna, had given ten thousand dollars to Union to be used as the President shall see fit. Although no decision has been made as to the disposal of the money, there is little doubt but that some of it will be applied to the "gym" fund and some toward the John Bigelow Memorial. Mr. Hanna is a member of the Memorial committee and is very much interest in the project. He lives in Cleveland, Ohio, where he has large business interests.

SPRING FOOTBALL PRACTICE

Captain Sarvey issued a call Saturday, for football candidates to report for spring practice. Yesterday afternoon was the date set and a good bunch turned out for the first practice. Little was done but light work will be started to-morrow when the squad will be out in football togs. Practice will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons for about three weeks. The purpose is to get the men into condition and to get an idea of the material which will be available for next season's work. Coach Dawson said in the college meeting Monday, that the team would be up against a stiff schedule and would have to work hard to get into good shape.

—:O:—

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB

At the fortnightly meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club held Monday evening, April 14th. Mr. Suan of Shanghai, China, gave a most interesting talk on the general topic of the new republic. After the talk, refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held April 30th.

PROFESSOR BERG'S ASSISTANT

President Richmond made an announcement Saturday of no little interest to the engineering department. Everett S. Lee of the University of Illinois, who has been doing graduate work under Professor Berg for the last two years, will be the latter's assistant in the electrical engineering department next year.

Mr. Lee is a graduate of the University of Illinois and while in the graduate school there he has worked in very close co-operation with Professor Berg. President Richmond thinks that on this account Mr. Lee will be of added value to the department, in raising it to the head of the engineering schools in the country. His motto is "Give us the right men and we will soon have the buildings" and it certainly looks as if Prexy had the right men for the place.

—:O:—

KILPATRICK TO BE REFEREE

It has been announced that Charles H. Kilpatrick '98 will act as official referee at the Interscholastic Day meet on May 17th. He holds the college records in the quarter, half and mile runs. These records were made in 1895 but still stand unequalled after nearly a decade. Mr. Kilpatrick has been on the campus several times this spring and has helped with the coaching of the track squad. His aid is very valuable and his interest in the college keeps him in touch with everything on the campus.

BENTLEY '11 MARRIED

Miss Irene R. Bloom and Lawrence W. Bentley '11, were married Saturday morning at the bride's home in Saratoga Springs. Miss Bloom was graduated from the Ellis Hospital Training School for nurses last June. Following the ceremony the couple left for Niagara Falls. They will reside at Lyons, where Bentley is employed as civil engineer by the state. He was a member of the Glee Club all through his college course and was also a member of the track team.

TRACK TEAM BUSY

The track team has now had two weeks of hard work and is rounding into shape, and some good performances are expected with the arrival of warm weather. The first meet will be in Troy on May 10. The team is still weak in the sprints, but will be better than last year in the weight events. Stoller '16 is doing fine work with both the shot and hammer. Monday he threw the hammer 121 feet 8 inches. Baker '14 is showing his usual form in the jumps and should break the New York Intercollegiate record in the broad jump. Mallen '16 showing up well in the hurdles. Captain LaBarron is in excellent condition and should clean up the half-mile as usual in the intercollegiate meets.

Several Albany men expect to join the squad this week. Whorton, formerly of Richmondville High School, now attending Albany Medical College, has already reported.

Vedder '13 has been given considerable short distance work this spring to quicken his pace, and has developed a strong finish, which he lacked last year.

The graduation of this year's class will leave only two men who have won their "U" besides those who win their "U" this spring. Dr. MacComber wants every man with any ability in track to come out to make up for this loss of material.

MEN PICKED FOR ORATORICALS

The tryouts for appointments for the Junior-Sophomore Oratorical Contests were held Friday afternoon in the Chapel. Dr. Kellogg, Professor Hale and Mr. Chase composed the faculty committee who chose the men. Ennis, Ewens, Mudge and A. D. Sherman, with Guthman, alternate, were picked from the junior class and Agan, Blodgett, Houghton and MacMillan from the sophomores.

The final contests will be held Monday evening, June 9th, in the First Presbyterian Church. Two prizes, thirty and twenty dollars, respectively, will be awarded to the successful contestants from each class.

ALUMNI NOTES

J. Dalton James, ex '14, was on the Hill last week.

John Leslie Moon '06, of the General Electric Company is now on an extended western trip. On Thursday, April 17th, he spoke at the National Electric Lighting Co. in Milwaukee, Ill. On Friday, he lectured before the Chicago Central Station Institute. His subject on both occasions was "Alternating Current Motors."

TENNIS TEAM BUSY

The Union Tennis team will leave on the night boat Thursday for a three day trip. Friday, they will play Lehigh and on Saturday, Rutgers. Dickinson, Wadsworth and Woods have been picked for the team. The fourth man is not as yet decided upon but the choice lies between Cleveland and the two Albany men, Woodall and Lippincot. It is a very desirable thing to have men from the Albany departments try for positions on the Union teams and it often gives Union much splendid material.

Porter Bigelow, son of John Bigelow, for so many years Union's oldest alumnus, was on the Hill this week and spoke in chapel this morning.

PRESS CLUB

The regular weekly meeting of the Press Club was held last evening in Washburn Hall. The next meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon, immediately after the Middlebury game. At this meeting, the final reports of all the committees will be given and officers will be elected for the year 1913-14. After the business meeting, the Club will adjourn to some restaurant or hotel where the annual dinner of the club will be held. The dinner has become an annual affair and does much to rouse interest and enthusiasm among the club members.

"LAW IS LAW"

(Accepted for literary contest)

"But," pleaded the old man, "that's not equity."

"Law is Law," snapped the fat man with a conclusive sweep of his fat hand.

"But you won't honestly assert that the consideration was not to be one thousand dollars."

"I assert nothing. Absolutely nothing! I make no assertions. I tell you, sir, I have nothing to say!" The fat man shouted menacingly, "Your lawyer drew up the contract. I stick to its provisions. That's all I assert!"

"But——"

"But nothing. I want no more of your buts. This is my place of business; unless you want to buy something, get out!" With this ultimatum the proprietor retired to the rear of his store puffing away nervously on his fat black cigar. "Get out," The words sounded and resounded in his ears. For the
