MUSICAL CLUB'S CONCERT.

Watervliet Church the Scene of a Successful Appearance.

Watervliet was lucky enough to secure the College Glee Clubs for a concert last Saturday night, and those who attended declared the event one of the most successful that had ever been given there. The concert was held at Colonial Hall under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the North Reformed Church of Watervliet. Every number on the entire program was encored to the echo. The Glee Club was particularly well received, and Bell, '08, in his solo work received hit. The program as rendered was as follows: well merited praise. The quartette made its usual

PHARMACY COMMENCEMENT.

Annual Event Held at Albany School.

Twenty-seventh Annual Exercises Held This Week

The commencement exercises of the Albany College of Pharmacy were held Tuesday evening in Odd Fellows Hall at 8 o'clock. Dean Willis G. Tucker presided. Prayer was offered by Rev. Charles G. Sewall, pastor of the State Street Presbyterian Church. The degrees were conferred by the dean and the address to the graduates was delivered by Prof. Edward Ellery, Ph. D., of Union College.

First senior prize of $25, awarded by Trustees: Arthur L. Andrews to the student passing the best examinations in all branches, went to Clyde F. Brandy; honorable mention to George W. Caldwell, Arthur M. Frink and George M. Carney.

Second senior prize, $20, awarded by the Alumni Association, to the member of the graduating class who does the best work in the laboratory and submits the best set of preparation made there, went to L. A. Lines; honorable mention to Henry J. Wildhack and John C. Parker.

Third senior prize, $15, by Dr. John M. Bigelow, to student doing best work in microscopy, was awarded to Miss Aimee H. Palmatier; honorable mention to Clyde F. Brandy and George W. Caldwell.

Junior prize for best examinations in all branches, $15, to Walter Cook; honorable mention to James A. Roach, William W. Gibson and Charles W. Thompson.

Junior prize for best work in chemistry, $10, to William W. Gibson; honorable mention to Walter Cook and Le Roy G. Mathews.

Junior prize for best work in pharmaceutical laboratory, Charles W. Thompson; honorable mention to Walter Cook and George I. Lockwood.

Holding's Orchestra rendered the music for the evening.

Following the exercises a banquet was held in the Ten Eyck.

ALLISON—FOOTE DEBATE.

Mould '09, Best Individual Debater—Philomatheans Awarded Decision for Best team Work.

Elmer W. K. Mould of Schenectady was adjudged the best individual debater of the six contestants in the annual Allison Foote debate held Wednesday evening in the College chapel, and the Philomathean Society, defending the negative, of the question under debate, was granted the decision for having presented the strongest argument as a team. The Philomathean speakers are all residents of Schenectady and graduates of the local High School.

The debate was upon the question: "Resolved, That the exclusion of the Chinese from the United States, under the present system, is detrimental to the best interests of the country." The affirmative was upheld by the Adelpheic speakers, and the Philomatheans contended for the negative.

Edwin L. La Crosse opened the debate for the affirmative, after having been introduced by A. V. V. Raymond, Jr., '08. La Crosse outlined the position to be followed by the affirmative, viz: that the exclusion of Chinese from this country, under the present system, is detrimental to our economic, ethical and social, and political interests. He said that our economic interests would be best subserved by having Chinamen come into our country to till the land which is at present uncultivated, in which sphere they would meet no opposition from white laborers, and would not, therefore, enter into competition with them. He further said that the Chinese could not possibly swamp out our civilization, because the immigration into this country would come only from a few districts of the Chinese empire.

Harry A. Cohen, in opening the debate for the negative, carefully outlined the case as it would be presented by that side—that the question concerned Chinese laborers only, and that immigration of these was undesirable, as it would debase American labor.

E. W. K. Mould, '09, in continuing the debate for the affirmative showed how it would be ethically and socially advantageous to admit the Chinamen to this country, and especially that class above the laborer, containing salesmen, the clergy, bankers, etc.

S. M. Cavert, '10, then took up the undesirability of the Chinament as a citizen. He said that he was morally debased, that he gambled, smoked opium, and promulgated vice among all of the people with whom he came into contact.

M. H. Werrauch, '08, then closed the direct argument for the affirmative. He said that the poor way in which existing laws had been administered against the "exempt" class had aroused a spirit of antagonism in China that had culminated in a boycott upon American goods. He declared that this occasioned an annual loss of $31,000,000 to the United States, or 60 per cent. of the trade formerly had with China.

The direct argument was closed by T. E. Hangan, '08. He made a plea for the preservation of the integrity of the American race, and declared that the enormous influx of Chinamen, under less restriction would result in obliterating the Americans as a race from the earth.

Rebuttal speeches followed and at the close of the debate the decision was rendered by Hon. Danforth E. Ainsworth, acting for the board of judges, the other two members being Dr. Charles F. Wheelock and W. C. Andrews.

The College Glee Club filled in the intermission with several selections. The college chapel was crowded to the doors, and much interest was manifested in the contest.

WHAT THE LITTLE MOUSE HEARD.

One day early last term a little mouse, driven from its ancestral abode by the ravages of Dr. Ellery's dog, took up his abode in a hidden corner of a dark closet in Room 2 of the South College colonnade.

During daily forages into the outer world the little mouse often found himself in the midst of a group of blinking, drowsy, semi-sleeping Sophomores with a very tall, bald, professor glaring at them from a desk on the platform. And words like these are what the little mouse heard.

"Mr. V," said the professor, "what did Dryden write?" Donk: "He wrote Odes in prose." "Well," commented the professor, "an Ode in prose would surely be a wonderful production."

"Mr. S, what was Dryden's next work?" Hank: "Why, er—er—" "Cub," prompting him,—"The Hind and the Panther." Hank: "Oh, yes, it was 'The Hind of the Panther.'"

"Mr. Ch., why was literature so poorly paid at Johnson's time?" Chafe: "Because the people wouldn't pay for it." Professor: "Well, on the whole, there isn't much sense in your answer."

"Now, out of Defoe's two hundred and fifty works there are only two worth mentioning. What are they, Mr. V?" Donk: "Robinson Crusoe and er—er, that one Mr. D— just mentioned." Professor: "What was it?" Donk: "I don't know."

At this juncture the professor diverged from literary paths.

"Mr. H—, I wish you wouldn't clean your pipe in class; I can't bear the smell of old, rank tobacco." Thereupon Hotch put up his pipe and literary themes were resumed.

"Yes," continued the professor, "the customs of Queen Anne's time were comical, but I don't believe that any fair-minded person would say they were much worse than some seen on the Union College campus."

"Well, on the whole, this has been a pretty good recitation, but I wish you would be a little more accurate."

Then at fifty-nine minutes past eleven the professor said, "I have a little matter to attend to to-day, so will excuse the section early. Otherwise that will be sufficient for to-day."

RENEWED INTEREST IN TENNIS.

Good Schedule Announced.

At Monday's college meeting it was decided to levy a tax of twenty cents for the support of the Tennis Association. The spirit with which the motion was greeted plainly shows that tennis is to be supported with renewed vigor. Potter, '10, as manager, has nearly completed the schedule and will present it to the Athletic Board this week for ratification. Suits of white flannel will be ordered at once and next week when the college courts have been put in condition, the matches for the championship will be run off in both doubles and singles.

The prospects for a fast team are the brightest in years. About fifteen of the foremost players in college have signified their intention of making a try for the position. Fuller '08, King '08, Potter '09, McCormick '09, Brown '09, Tompkins '10, A. C. Potter '10, Buck '10 and others have already handed their names in for the contests.

The schedule thus far is as follows:

May 11—Cornell at Schenectady.

May 13—Hamilton at Clinton, N. Y.

May 18—Williams at Williamstown, Mass.

May 22—Syracuse at Schenectady.

May 25—Hamilton at Schenectady.

Besides these dates, arrangements will soon be completed with Rutgers and New York University.

College closed Thursday afternoon for the Easter recess of four days. Regular work will be resumed on Tuesday morning, and all of the students will be expected to attend chapel services as usual then.

Sixteen hundred is the enrollment in the correspondence courses of the University of Chicago.

Cornell is to have a new $10,000 club house for the crews.

Women are to be admitted to the graduate school of Johns Hopkins.

SOME SPANISH ENGLISH

Let him with no sense of humor pass this by unnoticed, for he will find little here of scientific or artistic value, but whosoever likes to find tiny jewels of humor amidst the drudgery of the day's work may enjoy comparing these examples with samples of his own.

Only those who have actually gone among another people and have tried to master their language can have an adequate idea of the difficulties that the bright, attractive Porto Rican youngster meets with in getting a practical knowledge of English. After a year spent in the well-equipped Ponce High School and several months as director of music and teacher of the first year English at the Insular Normal School, I can only wonder at the amazing rapidity with which these new Americans learn and use English. After reading aloud in class "The Courtship of Miles Standish," "Hiawatha," "The Wonder Book," "Rip Van Winkle" and the lives of Longfellow, Hawthorne and Irving, we have just finished the mid-year examinations at the Normal School, and when I first looked at the pile of sixty-odd ten-page papers in English I was by no means elated at the prospect of correcting them, but as almost every paper contained several smiles and perhaps at least one laugh, I carefully copied and saved the various sentences and send them unaltered. Only those culled from the best papers are included, for, of course, a mere jargon of grammatical blunders would tend rather to make a teacher weep, and it is only fair to say that the mistakes are often logical translations of Spanish into English.

"Miles Standish didn't dare to ask another Puritan maiden to marry him and she didn't." "King Midas gave his daughter a sweet kiss in her face and turned her into a golden statute." "Hawthorne wrote 'The House of Seven Gabbles.'" "Then he died, leaving his memory." Wasn't that thoughtful of him? But Longfellow also had hard luck and "died, fuld of sentiment." "Rip Van Winkle was a good naturalist" in place of "good-natured fellow." "He took his gum and carry his dog to the woods," for the Spanish word "to carry" means also "to lead" or "to conduct." Perhaps the following statement ought to be true: "When he awoke he found his dog hungry 'after twenty years' sleep!'" The books we have read have been written by Irving, Longfellow, Hawthorne, Van Winkle and the National Publishing Company." "Rip found his wife has been died which made him glad very." "The duct has its fingers joined by a membrane." "Hawthorne became a layer" (lawyer). "Hiawatha married a Miss Water, but she died of a hungry." "Irving never married because he loved a little girl who was seventeen years old and she died and he decided to ever think of her figure," which wasn't exactly what little Ramona meant to say. "He never married because his bride was dead." "Una was the first baby and she had several older sisters." "The little bird was building his next." Longfellow's second marriage must have been a frost, for Maria writes: "He married again and died of a severe cold." Another girl says "He married a second time and learned several new languages." "His health was weak and was sent to Europe." "Positive 'ill,' comparatime 'well,' superlative 'I know of none.'" Union students will appreciate the little girl's innocently writing as an example of exclamation, "A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse!" One boy says "As 150 words is already written I therefore finish." "He shot the raindeer right through the woods." The following is a more extended sentence, in which the idea in the writer's mind is not very well conveyed, but we must bear in mind that the Spanish word for "misfortune" is "disgrace," and that the word "dress" is used for both men and women. "Longfellow was a disgraceful man. One day while his wife was cutting his daughter's curls his dresses fired and she was burned to dead. Just then he received a telegram saving that his son was wound in the war which had just broke. This was too much for Mr. Longfellow and he died of a severe chill." Don't you think that would have been too much for almost anyone? "By '06."

Byron Wm. Reed, box 774, San Juan, P. R.

Dr. Ellery has used his influence to induce the American Electro-Chemical Society to hold a session of its annual convention exercises in the chemical lecture room on May 1st. The convention will divide three days among the cities of Albany, Schenectady and Troy. The middle day of the series will be spent here.

THE WEST POINT GAME.

Union Loses, 3 to 1.

West Point met Union for the first game of the baseball season last Saturday, and defeated the Garnet nine by a score of 3 to 1, in a well fought contest, in which Union had a decided handicap to overcome. Stewart, '10, had been granted permission by the faculty to pitch for the game, and the team had counted upon his efforts to make the game a victory for the Garnet. In the first inning of the game, however, he "threw out" his arm, and, as a substitute, Dunn, '11, an untried freshman, was put in his place. Dunn, considering the fact that he was practically untrained for the position, played a good game, and held the soldiers down to comparatively few hits.

Union until the seventh inning held the lead by a score of 1 to 0. In that inning, however, West Point took a brace, and by a few well placed hits and an error or two by the Garnet men managed to land three men across the home plate for the winning scores.

The team has been practicing steadily all week, and expects to make a good showing against Pratt Institute on the Campus to-day.

The score of the West Point Game was as follows:

Editorial

Next week the Concordiensis will appear as the work of the new board of editors. In relinquishing the duties of editing our College paper the senior members of the retiring board feel they are giving over to their successors a task that is well worth the hours spent upon it. Not only is there much to be learned through experience, but service of such a nature cannot but make all who participate in it feel a greater love and respect for their Alma Mater and help arouse the feeling of the necessity for active work in Her cause.

In giving over the editorship to the members of the class of 1909, the retiring board feels that the work will be done by them in such a manner as to redound to the credit of the Institution.

* * * * *

There has been much to do and so little time to really accomplish anything that in looking back over the year's history, it appears that many of the projected reforms and advances have been but futile attempts. However, if anything of good springs in future years from the seed sown by hands that sought thus to bring forth good crops, the class of 1908 will feel that its labors have not been entirely in vain.

Adieu farewell.

Within a short time the Board of Trustees will meet to elect a President for the College.

Naturally their choice will fall upon a man who will be able to push the affairs of the college along the high road of improvement lately instituted.

To the undergraduate body there is no question of the ability of a certain man who has been at the head of our affairs for the past collegiate year; a man who has always treated every matter with justice and circumspection, and who has, by his rectitude and ability, won the respect and favor of every one of the undergraduates in Union College.

In public service too his course has always been marked with a dignity that has brought credit to himself, and to the institution he represents. Add to these qualities the fact that in all of his duties he has always acted with the greatest promptness and with unflagging energy, and you have been in Dean Ripton the man of all those at present thought of, most qualified to act as Union's head.

And, if this ability to deal fairly with all men so as to conserve the best interests of the college, this zeal in pushing the university's interests, this dignity of character carries the weight of opinion with alumni that it does with the undergraduates, there can be no question as to the next President of Union College.

Would it not be a good thing for the undergraduates to voice the sentiments they feel in this matter, and send their expression to the Board of Trustees?

The Natural History Museum in the upper corridor of Nott Memorial Hall has recently been enriched by a gift of ten specimens of Porto Rican birds sent to Dr. Stoller by Reed '06. Reed is at present in Porto Rico, where he is prominently connected with the public school system of the island. The birds he sent are very good specimens, and represent about eight species. They will form the nucleus of a much larger and more complete collection of Porto Rican birds.

THE A B C'S OF OLD UNION.

In Mixed Metre.

- A stands for Ashey with "veni, vidi, vici," Whom all the Union profs and studes consider very freaky.
- B is for Dutchy Barnes, the big bug of the college,
He has studied o'er in Leipzig, and owns a lot of knowledge.
- C stands for the college Cop, the guardian of the grounds,
But seldom in our college days have we seen him
on his rounds.
- D is for Doctor Mac, who prances in the gym;
He keeps the fellows training, and he puts them all in trim.
- E stands for Eastman, who runs the chemical lab;
When the fellows get their work done wrong he keeps them all on tab.
- F's for the Freshies' banquet which went off very nice,
Although the Sophs were valiant and got the biggest slice.
- G stands for Garry, learned man who comes from Lafayette; Old Union has many profs and tutes, but he's the student's pet.
- H is for Huffy of philosophic mind,
A more truly philosophic man it would be hard to find.
- I stands for the Idol, the Freshmen's patron saint;
Every year he doth receive a fresh, green coat of paint.
- J. is for Johnnie B, who is skilled in Grecian lore;
When the A. B. got his Greek stuff wrong, oh, my,
how Johnnie swore!
- K for Morland King must stand, a young engineering tute;
That he dotes upon electric themes, no one would dare dispute.
- L is for Landreth of the engineering school,
To keep the students working is Pop's unfailing rule.
- M stands for Mickey Ann, who trains us in orations,
Most of which, Mickey thinks, are mere conglom-erations.

N is for the old Nott elm, now in a state of decay,
But the Junior class took the matter up, so it's preserved for many a day.

O is for Oppie, who thinks physics all in all;
Unless a stude's a physics shark, his marks look pretty small.

P is for C. B. Pond, a very "taking" man;
He used to take our money, but now no more he can.

Q stands for Doc Ellery's Quiz, which comes before exam;
It makes the stude's all hustle, and they begin to cram.

R is for Bennie Rip, "Yes, yes, exactly so;"
His is the smile that won't come off, it's always there you know.

S stands for Spike, who waxes off sarcastic;
He puts down then a goose egg mark, a measure very drastic.

T is for the trusty Trot, the dear old handy lit;
The pony canters right along, and never balks a bit.

U stands for dear old Union with bright and glorious past;
May her glories not be bygones, but may they ever last!

V is for Victory in athletics and debating, too,
For the Garnet debaters easily snatched the palm from the Buff and Blue.

W is for Washburn Hall, a very familiar place,
For there we all so often see the professor's smiling face.

X is for the final exam, which comes three times
a year,
And fills the hearts of bluffers with quaking and with fear.

Y stands for Tootsie Young, who teaches Freshmen math;
It goes hard for that poor Freshie, who perchance incurs his wrath.

Z is for the Zigzag streets, which lead to the old Blue Gate,
And every stude who enters here has met a happy fate.

—C. '10.

Some students of Westminster College, who were expelled because they insisted on retaining Greek letter fraternities, have decided to go to law about the matter.

SCRIBBLER, '08.

At Monday's college meeting an exciting debate was held on the question of censuring Senator Wemple, of this district, for having cast his vote against the anti-racetrack gambling bills, which recently came up for vote in the Legislature. It was decided best to strike the procedure from the minutes of the meeting, owing to the fact that the students had not had time to consider the matter.

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

CHAPTER I.

I am an ordinary, peaceful cow, an everyday cow, in fact just a cow. But it seems to me that in my few short years I have had experiences well worth relating.

My early life was spent among the vine-clad hills and sumac groves of Scotia, and ran on as quiet as the Erie Canal, by which I sported. But this peacefulness was not to last. One day instead of being turned out to graze upon the luscious thistles, I was detained in my stable. Shortly I saw my master approaching with a learned looking gentleman and heard them discussing my virtues. After asking many questions the stranger remarked: "On the whole, inasmuch as this cow fulfills all my expectations, I will buy her subject to the rules of the college office." From this conversation I judged that I was delegated to college life and here my real story begins.

CHAPTER II.

On my arrival I was placed in a ramshackle building which might once have been a barn.

Early the next morning my new owner, after extracting enough lacteal fluid for his immediate needs remarked to a youth standing near: "That will be sufficient for to-day and now you may conduct the bovine to the grassy plot below the terrace, son." Son then led me through a muddy lane with a long stone path along its sides and finally left me to my own devices in a field almost devoid of anything but rows of pegs stuck in the ground. Along the upper side was an irregular pile of stones which later I learned to call the "Terrace." At one end was a yard which greatly resembled my old barnyard in Scotia. While I was serenely attempting to wrest a frugal meal from the scant herbage, a reddish dog dashed over the stonepile directly at me. He was closely followed, however, by a gentleman with whiskers much the color of the canine's coat, who sternly shouted: "Come here, sir, come here Bingo." And after much coaxing Bingo was led by the scruff of his neck into one of the adjacent buildings.

The remainder of the day passed in peaceful quiet for me and was only interrupted by intermittent clanging of strange dinner bells.

The College Man's Favorite Store

"Varsity" chaps hereabout are deucedly partial to Holtzmann's dontcher-know—they like the little "quips" and turns (if we may be allowed the expression) in Tailorcraft that makes their ready-to-wear garments for fresh, middler, soph and seniors so typically collegian. Boys, we just want to say that your favorite store is ready to make you look every inch the college man. You know quite well that college cut clothes are the characteristic of the College spirit. No young man can be said to be thoroughly inoculated with the indefinable exuberance who is lax in this particular. The rah! rah! rah! cannot be croked with the same gusto in an ill-fitting suit, so get ready to "holler" in a Holtzmann's Perfection fit college tog. Hats—Haberdashery.
