UNIVERSITY DAY

To Occur Thursday, March 7

As indicated in a previous issue, the Board of Governors of the University has decided to hold another gathering of all the members of the various departments of the University. This gathering will be held in Albany on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, the seventh of March. The afternoon exercises will be held in some suitable hall and the principal feature will be an address by Dr. Andrew S. Draper, Commissioner of Education for the State of New York. In the evening a large dinner will be given in the Ten Eyck Hotel. It is expected that there will be a generous support on the part of all the undergraduates of the University. The tickets for the dinner will cost but $2 a plate.

It is the aim of those in authority to make this an event long to be remembered and no pains will be spared to make it an occasion for the display of a real and genuine spirit of loyalty to Old Union from the members of every department.

STUDENT LIFE IN GERMANY.

An Article by a Law Student.

The following article was written by M. Drepkopp of the Albany Law School and was read at one of the meetings of the Parker Debating Society.—Ed.

The life of the German student is becoming more and more interesting to the great body of American students and very frequently the German Universities are supplements to the American Colleges. In order to make yourself familiar with the life of a German student, you must first get acquainted with the ambition of the German youth. To become a professional man and, if possible, a college professor, is the highest aim of the ambitious German youth. Education and learning, the chief qualification for a professional career, not only carry with them a certain amount of social and intellectual distinction but give their possessor also a claim to the esteem of his fellow citizens. A man who acquires riches is given credit for his business ability, but real admiration is reserved for the "Ritter von Geiste" or to the "Knights of the Spirit." It is therefore not to be wondered at that the German parents are ready to make every conceivable sacrifice, and the young German is willing to make his best effort, in order that he may become a member of the University. It must be remembered that the German University has nothing to do with politics, whatever. The professor is impartial toward the socialist as well as toward the conservatist; toward the rich as well as toward the poor. The positions for professional life are within the reach of every duly cultivated mind.

The qualifications for entrance to the University are by no means as easy as the entrance to our Union College. The student on applying for entrance to the University must have a thorough knowledge of Greek, Latin, French, German History, Mathematics and Science, or must be a graduate of the preparatory school, figuratively called the "Gymnasium." After satisfying the entrance committee, he is allowed to become a member of the student body in the University.

There are in Germany, proper, about 20 Universities, with a total attendance of 40,000 students. Each University is a state institution and is not under the influence of any rich man as is the case with our institutions.

A German University is perhaps the most perfect republican organization in the world; there is absolute liberty in teaching and in studying, attendance at lectures being a matter of choice to a very large degree. There is no system of monition and you will never hear the phrase, "I will call the roll." But one will always find a large attendance in the classes, although it is optional with the student.

The final examinations are not conducted as are ours. There they rely solely upon the honor of the students and do not watch them at all after having posted the examinations. The student in most cases after completing six semesters at the University, makes application to take the final examinations. He is allowed the privilege, and if he is successful, he is given the degree of doctor of philosophy, which is announced by large placards on the University bulletin board. If the examination passed was exceedingly satisfactory, the student may become a "privat-ducant." As such, he receives no salary, but only lecture fees, if he is able to attract students to his lectures. After a few years the faculty may recommend his appointment as "extraordinary professor," which is a more honored but still unpaid position. After a further lapse of time, by working at his special branch of science or philosophy, he may be called by some University to fill the chair of an ordinary professor, drawing a fixed salary aside from his lecture fees.

At the preparatory school the student is subject to the discipline of his teachers, but at the University the student enjoys for the first time absolute freedom; he can live where he desires and can do anything he desires.

The social life of a German student finds more expression in smaller towns like Göttingen, Freiberg, and Heildleberg. In these cities students run things to suit themselves, but in a city like Berlin they are held in check. Almost every student belongs to some social organization, and the mark of each organization is some kind of a variegated cap. The main object of the members of these organizations is to have a good time; to drink beer; to fight duels; and to play jokes on the police or farmers. The members meet as a rule before dinner for an appetizer, and after dinner for a cup of coffee, or take a walk, or a drive. On Saturday evening all meet at some specified place and drink beer together. This is known as "Knipe." The "Knipe" is conducted accordingly to what is known as the "beer comment." The chairman calls the meeting to order, and the first order of business is that each one present must drink a schooner of beer. After this follows the real business interspersed with songs and beer. The "Knipe" always lasts until 12 o'clock but in the majority of cases the students do not adjourn until morning. Next to the "Knipe," the art of duelling is the most prominent feature in the life of the student. It is to the German student what football or baseball is to the American youth. In such a duel the actors only try to scratch their opponents' faces, the one who has the least number of scratches upon his face at the completion of the duel is called the victor.

Duelling is forbidden by law and when the offenders are caught in the act, they are committed to the "Carker" or prison, built especially for the students, and sometimes they experience some difficulty in obtaining their freedom.

All in all, the German certainly seems to enjoy his student life even more than the American, and yet without having such strict regulations as we find in most of our American Colleges, the German student accomplishes as much as any other student on the globe.

Law School Notes

Lectures were resumed on Tuesday after the short vacation of one day between terms. Everyone seemed glad that the examinations were over and so far as can be learned a great majority of the students passed without difficulty. The following are types of the questions presented on the examination papers which will enable the lay mind to grasp more freely the intricacies of the law and the need of large remuneration to any one who masters them:

"If a man were born in the middle of the Pacific Ocean, on a Spanish vessel, of an English mother and a German father, what nationality would he be?"

"If an heir to the Spanish throne were born, would the same be a gift causa mortis or inter vivos?" It is to be noticed that the principle of revocation applies in this case.

"Is the assistant treasurer of any institution to be considered as a chose in action or a chose in possession? Some more typical questions will be printed in our next issue. It was exceedingly lucky for the pupils that the questions were so easy. Nothing in the quince line was dispensed by the examiners.

Smith, Clara M. Verbeck, and Belle W. Medbery. The Messrs. J. Leslie Walton, George C. Newberry, Louis L. Heath, Phillip L. Classen, Hervey E. Butcher, and Glenn E. Richardson acted as ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony, a dinner was served to the bride's maids and ushers while the guests partook of dainty refreshments and entertained themselves with songs and the usual fun making of such occasions.

Later in the evening the newly married couple left for a two weeks' trip in the South and will be at home in Ballston Spa. after April 1st.

The following Union men were present: L. J. Weed, '01; W. G. Medbery, '01; Blinn, '07; La Roche, '08; Stevens, '08; Merrill, '09; Clark, '09; Bayless, '09; Brown, '09; Lewis, '09; Schaupp, '09; Stewart, '09; Potter, '10; Leon, '10; Smith, '10, and Ferguson, '10.

Athletic Board Meeting

The regular winter meeting of the Athletic Board was held on Wednesday night and much important business was transacted. The first matter acted upon was the question of electing a football captain for next season.

It was decided that all football men who had won their "U." or "U. A. A." could vote for captain, while the freshmen are to elect two representatives, who will vote for captain. The election is to be held within the next two weeks.

The election of La Roche, '08, as assistant baseball manager for the coming season was ratified. La Roche fills the vacancy caused by the absence from College of Bacon, '08.

The petition of several students that tennis be recognized as a regular branch of College athletics was granted. However, no fixed sum will be spent on this sport at present.

A special meeting has been called for next Wednesday evening, when, among other matters, rules regulating the wearing of the "U." will be thoroughly discussed.

The basketball schedule as arranged by Manager Brennan was accepted.

ONE EXPLANATION?

6 A. M.—“Wake up, Bill, there goes the envoy extraordinary for the ‘Daily Gazooks.’”

“Oh, Lord! Ye shades of Horace Greeley, open mine eyes! How is it he come today? This isn’t yesterday.”

“No,” dough face, but this is the first day after the last day since he came the day before. I told you once he’s ‘extraordinary.’”

“Does that mean he brings the ‘Daily’ oftener than twice a week?”

“No, he doesn’t dare because we might get in the habit of reading it if it came too often.”

Prolonged sighs of contentment are heard within. The Goddess of the Morning News softly lulls these two to sleep. A snore of sizeable dimensions betrays the vividness of the phantasmagoria.

6:03 A. M.—The coldest corner of South College.

“Hully gee! but it’s fierce to go over to dat round cateedrawl. T’ell wit’ de boss fer givin’ me de call every day. I don’t never slice it.”

6:31 A. M.—The top steps of the round building.

“What! Left alone? And so cold, too? Not even the Crookline Eagle or the New York Semit to keep you company? Poor thing, I’ll keep you for old time’s sake. Had some one not got here earlier, you and the other two would have a royal party with me. Confound those New York papers, anyway; they’re not fit to be called dailies. ——— Ha! Ha! Perhaps somebody is doing the same thing that your uncle is!”

A shadow steals across the campus just as the sun (not from New York) drives away the darkness of night.

7:54 A. M.—Same place. Mr. D—— solilo-

“Now the blasted idiots. How in thunder did they get mixed up to-day? Didn’t I give ‘em Sam Hill yesterday? And not here again!! The apologies I’ll have to give will make the Idol weep.”

* * *

From 8:01 until 11:59 Mr. D—— resorts to every known means of pacifying the varying tempers of his questioners.

“Very sorry, Mr. W——, there must have been a mistake again to-day. No, Wednesday’s paper does not come on Tuesday.”

“Exceedingly unfortunate, Doctor, I have already telephoned in regard to the matter. ——— What? ——— Oh, yes, you will find that question fully discussed in the last issue of the Proceedings of the American Branch of the International Society for Physical Research.”

“Yes, Mr. B——, you will find an excellent article on “Salome” in yesterday’s Semit. The Eagle was the only one that flew in to-day. ——— Very sorry about it. I have written to headquarters.”

“No, Mr. H——, the Gazooks is not here. Very deplorable. But you will find all the College news in yesterday’s paper. Nothing happened yesterday, but the steam heat.”

“Quite true. They should be here on time. I’m afraid that I shall have to subscribe in my own name in order to be sure of getting them.”

Et Cetera ad Infinitum.

UNIVERSITY DAY.

As announced in another column, the date for University Day has been definitely settled as Thursday, March 7. When Dr. Raymond announced February 28 as the date it was not known that it would be impossible to secure the Ten Eyck for that evening.

The value of such an assemblage of the students of all the departments can hardly be over-estimated.

A gathering of this sort has not been held since the Freshman year of the present Senior Class, and all will join in a most hearty welcome of this most admirable custom. We have great faith in the spirit of this University and we firmly believe that it requires just such an affair as this to bring out the best of feeling that exists somewhere in the heart of every man who claims the Garnet as his standard.

We hail this day with all joy and hope that it will be found exceedingly advisable to have it established as an annual custom.

Once a year is much too seldom for a public manifestation of the kindly relationship that ought and does exist between the various departments.

Schenectady, N. Y., 31 January, 1907.

Editor "The Concordiensis."

Dear Sir:—Perhaps you may have noticed that there has not been as much enthusiasm for basketball as you think there should be. That there is less enthusiasm shown than there generally is for football or baseball. Perhaps you have noticed this condition, and have stopped there without trying to find out why it exists.

Is it possible that you can remember back to the "Old Days" when we used to have a College meeting every Monday morning? When the entire Student body assembled to add dignity and authority to any measure that was passed? When the old Chapel was blue with the smoke that we sent up as an offering to the Gods of Wisdom, in the Gallery, to induce them to guide us in our deliberations. When the proletariat could sit quietly at his ease and smoke his pipe while the upper classes spoke wisely on some important question. In those good old days the forward seats rattled merrily at the strenuous application of much shoe leather from the man behind when any mention of football or baseball was made. And the "Short Yell" was given with eagerness and enthusiasm by men who were trying to do their part if perchance it was not their fortune to represent their Alma Mater on a team.

But those days are gone and they have taken with them much of that fine enthusiasm that was so noticeable in years before this.

There is another reason that is hardly as urgent, but which nevertheless deserves mention. On the football or baseball fields there was always room enough and to spare for all those who wished to encourage the team at practice. But with basketball it is different. You all know the limited seating capacity of the Gym., and furthermore, practice is held in the evening, when most of the fellows are busy with their studies for the next day. But if you knew the good effects your presence has upon the men in practice, you would be tempted to steal away from your studies or your pleasures, and come to the Gym. and occasionally make it re-echo with a cheer for the team.

Very truly yours,

SCRUB.

The College Hockey Club played the Mohawk Golf Club in a fast game of hockey Saturday afternoon, January the 26th. ## The College Man's Favorite Store

"Varsity" chaps hereabout are deucedly partial to Holtzmann's dontcher-know—they like the little "quips" and turns (if we may be allowed the expression) in Tailorcraft that makes their ready-for-wear gorments for fresh, middler, soph and seniors so typically collegian. Boys, we just want to say that your favorite store is ready to make you look every inch the college man. You know quite well that college cut clothes are the characteristic of the College spirit. No young man can be said to be thoroughly inoculated with the indefinable exuberance who is lax in this particular. The rah! rah! rah! cannot be evoked with the same gusto in an ill-fitting suit, so get ready to "holler" in a Holtzmann's Perfection fit college tog. Hats—Haberdashery.
