MEETING OF THE COMMITTEES HAVING IN CHARGE THE SCHOOLS AT ROME AND ATHENS.

On Thursday and Friday, May 8th and 9th, the Managing Committees of the American Schools of Classical Studies at Rome and Athens held their annual meetings in the Board Room of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, in New York. Upon these committees rest the obligation of devising ways and means to maintain the schools at their highest efficiency. The schools are supported chiefly by contributions from American colleges and universities. Representatives from the following institutions were present: Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Brown, University of Vermont, University of California, Bryn Mawr, University of Pennsylvania, Johns Hopkins, Western Reserve University, University of Michigan, University of Wisconsin, University of Maine, Trinity, Cornell and Union. Many other colleges are represented in the Managing Committees of the two schools, but their members failed to attend the meetings referred to. Each college or university represented on the Managing Committee of the School at Athens contributes annually a minimum of 250 dollars per annum to the support of that school. In the case of the school at Rome the minimum sum giving title to representation on the Committee is 100 dollars. Members of the Roman Committee are invited to attend the meeting of the Greek Committee, but are not entitled to a vote.

Each school is managed by a director, who is elected for five years, is eligible to reelection, and resides in Rome or in Athens, as the case may be. The present director of the Athens school is Professor Richardson, who has been in charge there for more than ten years. At Rome the work is in the hands of Mr. Richard Norton, the son of Mr. Charles Eliot Norton, of Boston. Mr. Norton has been in charge not more than two years. A professor is elected annually to assist the director, and the latter is at liberty to employ a secretary and such local assistance as he may deem necessary. In Athens much assistance is derived through affiliation with the English, French and German schools, whose lecturers and specialists are ever ready to place their services at the command of the popular Americans. Prominent among these obliging foreigners have been Dr. Dörpfeld and Mr. Percy Gardner. In Rome there is the German Archaeological Institute, whose doors are open to students of the American school; and the Vatican library, whose authorities have proved themselves to be both courteous and obliging. The lectures on Roman Topography given every year by Prof. Hülsen, and those of Prof. Mau, also given annually, on the site of Pompeii, have proved of great value to the American students, and the study of palaeography and ancient manuscripts has been made possible and easy by the authorities in charge of the reading room at the Vatican. The foundation and maintenance of these schools at Rome and Athens are the best evidence we have of the interest taken by Americans in the study of Greek and Latin literature, languages and life. They make prominent the more tangible side of antiquity, and emphasize the importance, to students of the literature, of what is commonly termed archaeology.

A part, and an important part, of this work is excavation. Here especially the architect and the student of art are called into action. To uncover an ancient city, like Corinth, or Delphi, is a matter of digging merely, which can be accomplished without much trouble if money be available with which to reward the persons who dig. But to interpret and to reconstruct the broken and fragmentary remains which the spade lays bare is permitted to those alone who make it a business and a profession to study ancient building, and antique art.

This done, it is wonderful what added light is thrown upon the literature, and what interest attaches anew to the study of ancient life. In future, no man who intends to teach Latin or Greek in the colleges and schools of this country can afford to forego a year's experience in Greece and Italy.

Among the more interesting features of such an experience are the excursions, under the guidance of the director of the school, into the Peloponnesus, or among the ruins of southern Italy and Sicily. What the Germans call an Insel-reise is also a part of the year's work at the school at Athens. Such a journey among the islands of the Grecian Archipelgo does more sometimes to vivify the literature than months of work in the study or the class-room.

A young man may profit by the opportunities to which I have thus briefly referred if he be a graduate of an American college or university, and can afford to equip himself with the moderate sum of seven or eight hundred dollars. If the college from which he comes is one of the "contributing" institutions, no tuition fee is expected of him. Otherwise he must pay the sum of 25 dollars into the treasury of the school. A scholarship or fellowship is occasionally at his disposal—but only after a competitive examination for which he must be especially prepared in accordance with directions fully set forth in the American Journal of Archaeology. To this publication I would refer those who may be seeking further information on this subject—a subject of interest to all advocates of classical studies at Union College.

CHI PSI CONVENTION.

Held Under Auspices of Union Chapter.

The sixty-first annual convention of the Chi Psi fraternity was held at the new lodge of Alpha Pi, the Philip Spencer Memorial Chapter House, Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, May 14, 15, and 16, under the auspices of Alpha Theta of Williams College. Chi Psi was founded at Union College in 1841 by John Brush, Jr., Judge Patrick Upshaw Major and Samuel Titus Taber of the class of 1842, Dr. Jacob Henry Farrell and Philip Spencer of the class of 1843, Alexander Peter Berthoud, Major General James Cnatham Duane, Robert Mc Fadden, William Force Terhune and James Lafayette Witherspoon of the class of 1844. Of these but one—Patrick Upshaw Major—still lives and but for his great feebleness most certainly would have been in attendnace.

The convention itself was a dedication of the attractive new lodge, erected to perpetuate the memory of Philip Spencer the patron saint of the fraternity. The business sessions of the convention were held during the three days. Delegates began to arrive on Tuesday and throughout the three days Chi Psis from every where were very much in evidence around the college.

Those who were present at the convention were:

THE CAMPUS MEETING.

The campus meeting of the student body held last week on the eve of the departure of the Varsity base ball team upon its annual Vermont trip was in a measure successful. The freshman class is to be complimented on the efficiency of its management of the bon-fire, the base ball management on the successful agitation of the matter of subscription payments. The lack of display of wholesome enthusiasm and loyal Union feeling, so evident on previous similar occasions, is certainly to be deplored.

1892's Tenth Reunion. The class of 1892 is working hard to hold a large and enthusiastic class reunion in June this being their tenth. L. B. Sebring, '92, of Schenectady, and E. S. Coons, '92, of Ballston Spa, are working up the reunion and the indications are that a very successful reunion will be held. These men have found a great difficulty in ascertaining the correct addresses of the members and they earnestly request all men who matriculated with the class of 1892 to send their names and addresses to either of them. The Concordiensis hereby acknowledges its indebtedness for considerable information concerning the class of '92 to Lewis B. Sebring of Schenectady.

The New Board. With this issue the present board of editors hand over the Concordiensis to their successors. The Editors have endeavored during their incumbency to make the paper the best possible, in this they have often failed, partly due to themselves, partly to circumstances which could not be remedied. The editors relinquish their offices to the new board with wishes for a successful year and with the sincere hope that they may improve the paper and bring it to a still higher standard than it now attempts to maintain. The new board, as the result of the election held in Silliman Hall on May 15, is composed of the following: Editor-in-chief, Walter E. Kruesi; literary editor, Samuel B. Howe, Jr.; news editor, Joseph G. Fenster; athletic editor, Raymond C. Donnan; exchange and alumni editor, Allen S. Peck; medical department, Walter E. Hays; Law department, Borden H. Mills. The associate editors from the class of 1904 are as follows: A. L. Benning, R. W. Clark, J. L. Donhauser, S. C. Fiero, E. D. Greenman, H. S. Olmsted, C. G. Stiles. The reportorial staff, from the class of 1905; E. F. Ellenwood, J. R. Nowell, E. G. Simons, M. T. Raymond, G. A. Vedder.

The attention of every man on the board is called to the fact that at the meeting of the board a resolution was unanimously passed that hereafter every man on the board, senior, junior and sophomore, must hand in one article at least for one out of every three issue of the paper or he will be dropped from the board.

The board as it is now is quite large but in view of the resolution passed it is hoped that the next year's board will be able to reduce the board and at the same time secure the best men. It behooves every man to take note of this fact and if he wishes to retain his position he will have to work, for the board will certainly be reduced, especially in the class of 1904.

The University of Michigan has the largest number of living alumni, having 15,000. Harvard has 14,006; Yale is third, with 11,436.

N. Y. S. I. O. L. CONTEST.

Held at Rochester and Won by A. H. Hinman, '02, for Union.

The annual contest of the New York State Intercollegiate Oratorical League was held on the evening of Friday, May 17, at Rochester University in the Alumni gymnasium. The league is composed of Rochester, Syracuse and Union Universities and an annual contest is held, the prize being a gold key. The contestants this year were Ward V. Tolbert of Rochester, J. Roy Allen of Syracuse and Addison H. Hinman of Union. The result of the contest was the winning of the prize by Mr. Hinman, Union's representative.

The contest was opened by Addison H. Hinman, the representative of Union University. He spoke on "The Problem of the disposition of anarchists. Taking the assassination of President McKinley as a text, the speaker said that at present there is a creature in the midst of the body politic of the nation which, unless disposed of, threatens to destroy the institution of American government. The speaker asked if there was any reason why society should tolerate such an individual as, an anarchist was not a man, but, instead, was destitute of all manhood.

The speaker thought the best way of getting rid of the anarchist was to begin at the root of the evil by passing such emigrant laws as would prevent his being turned loose upon the country. He was in favor of keeping out of this country entirely all such persons as express anarchistic sentiments.

Something should be done in the meantime with those already in this country. In this connection, he said, the newspapers were to blame for a good deal of the restlessness at present prevalent in labor circles. He gave it as his opinion that all such dissatisfaction with conditions could not help but bring about anarchistic sentiments in the minds of those affected by disturbances brought about by the conflicting interests of capital and labor. He thought it would be a good thing if the papers refrained from devoting great space to such men as Czolgosz; much attention shown such wretches, as was the case last fall, could not help but make martyrs of them—in the estimation of some. Other suggestions as to how such matters were to be treated by the press were given.

The second speaker, Ward V. Tolbert of Rochester University, spoke on "The Negro and the Convict Lease System." His oration contained a quantity of information regarding some conditions in the South not understood by the average Northern mind.

The speaker said the condition of the negro of the South today is essentially a servile one; so far as his all-around condition is concerned, it is worse than in the days of slavery. He said this is due to the convict lease system, by which the negroes, either for a real or fictitious crime, are leased out by the state to mining and railroad companies. After that, as a rule, if their sentence was for ten years, they were never seen again as free men.

The last speaker was J. Roy Allen of Syracuse University. In "The Martyr Statesman" he paid a tribute to Charles Sumner. The salient features of that statesman's public record were touched upon in an appreciative manner and in a way that showed the speaker was thoroughly conversant with his subject.

At the conclusion of the contest the judges, who were Rev. Dr. Nelson Millard, Rev. Frederick D. Leete and Eugene C. Denton, awarded the prize to Addison H. Hinman, Union, '02, the first speaker.

THE VERMONT TRIP.

Union Lost Both Games to Vermont.

Union's base ball team left at 12:35 on Thursday, May 15, for Burlington, Vt., where the team was to play two games with Vermont. The first game was played on May 16 and resulted in a defeat for Union with the score of 13 to 3. The second was played on the 17th and resulted in a score of 14 to 13. The games were marked by loose playing on both sides, N. Devoe and Griswold playing steady ball for Union. Union's team was in a half-crippled condition as it has been for some weeks. With Bradley off, O'Brien playing, but suffering still from his arm, and Mahar, out of the game, the team could not play as well as usual. With these important men out of the game, it fell to the batting to play the whole game, a thing difficult to do. Devoe struck out 7 men in the first game and Davis the Vermont pitcher, 4; in the second, Devoe, 7; Davis, 6.

Below is a summary of the two games:

THE LAST JUNIOR HOP.

The last Jnnior Hop to be given by the class of 1903 will be held in Nott Memorial Hall on Friday evening, May 23. The committee is to be congratulated on the successful series of dances they have given this year and this one, the last of the year, should be well patronized by the students. From 8 to 9, just before the dance, there will be held a musical in Silliman Hall by the members of the college musical association and outside talent.

The concert is open to the upper classes. This in connection with the senior reception and the hop should make the afternoon and evening very enjoyable.

THE ALUMNI COLUMN.

Interesting News About Union Graduates.

'41.—Dr. Charles A. Phelps died in Boston April 28. He was a noted physician and politician. Dr. Phelps was a native of Boston, and a classmate of the Rev. Edward Everett Hale and the poet, Dr. T. W. Parsons. He went to Yale for one year then entered Union College graduating in 1841. He got his medical degree from Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia. He entered public life, however, like all his distinguished ancestors and became United States consul at Prague and Dresden. He also found time to write biographies of Grant, Wilson and other works.
